The Legend 1945

“To Girlhood, Boyhood look
The teacher and the school.”

Only a lot of boys and girls?
Only the tiresome spelling, writing, ciphering classes?
Only a public school?

Ah more, infinitely more;
(As George Fox raised his warning cry, "Is it
this pile of brick and mortar, these dead floors, windows, rails, you call the church?
Why this is not the church at all - the church is living, ever living souls.")

And you America,
Cast you the real reckoning for your present?

The lights and shadows of your future, good or evil.
To girlhood, boyhood look,
the teacher and the school.

From Walt Whitman's
"An Old Man's Thought of School" in "Autumn Rivulets,"
"Leaves of Grass"

Copyright 1926, Doubleday, Doran & Co.
Inc.

WALT WHITMAN, prophet and singer of America's greatness and future, realized that only through education could this glorious future be fulfilled. This quotation has been chosen as the theme because North Side High School fulfills its task in this preparation and because today Whitman's words need to be remembered.

Builder Of America's

Future

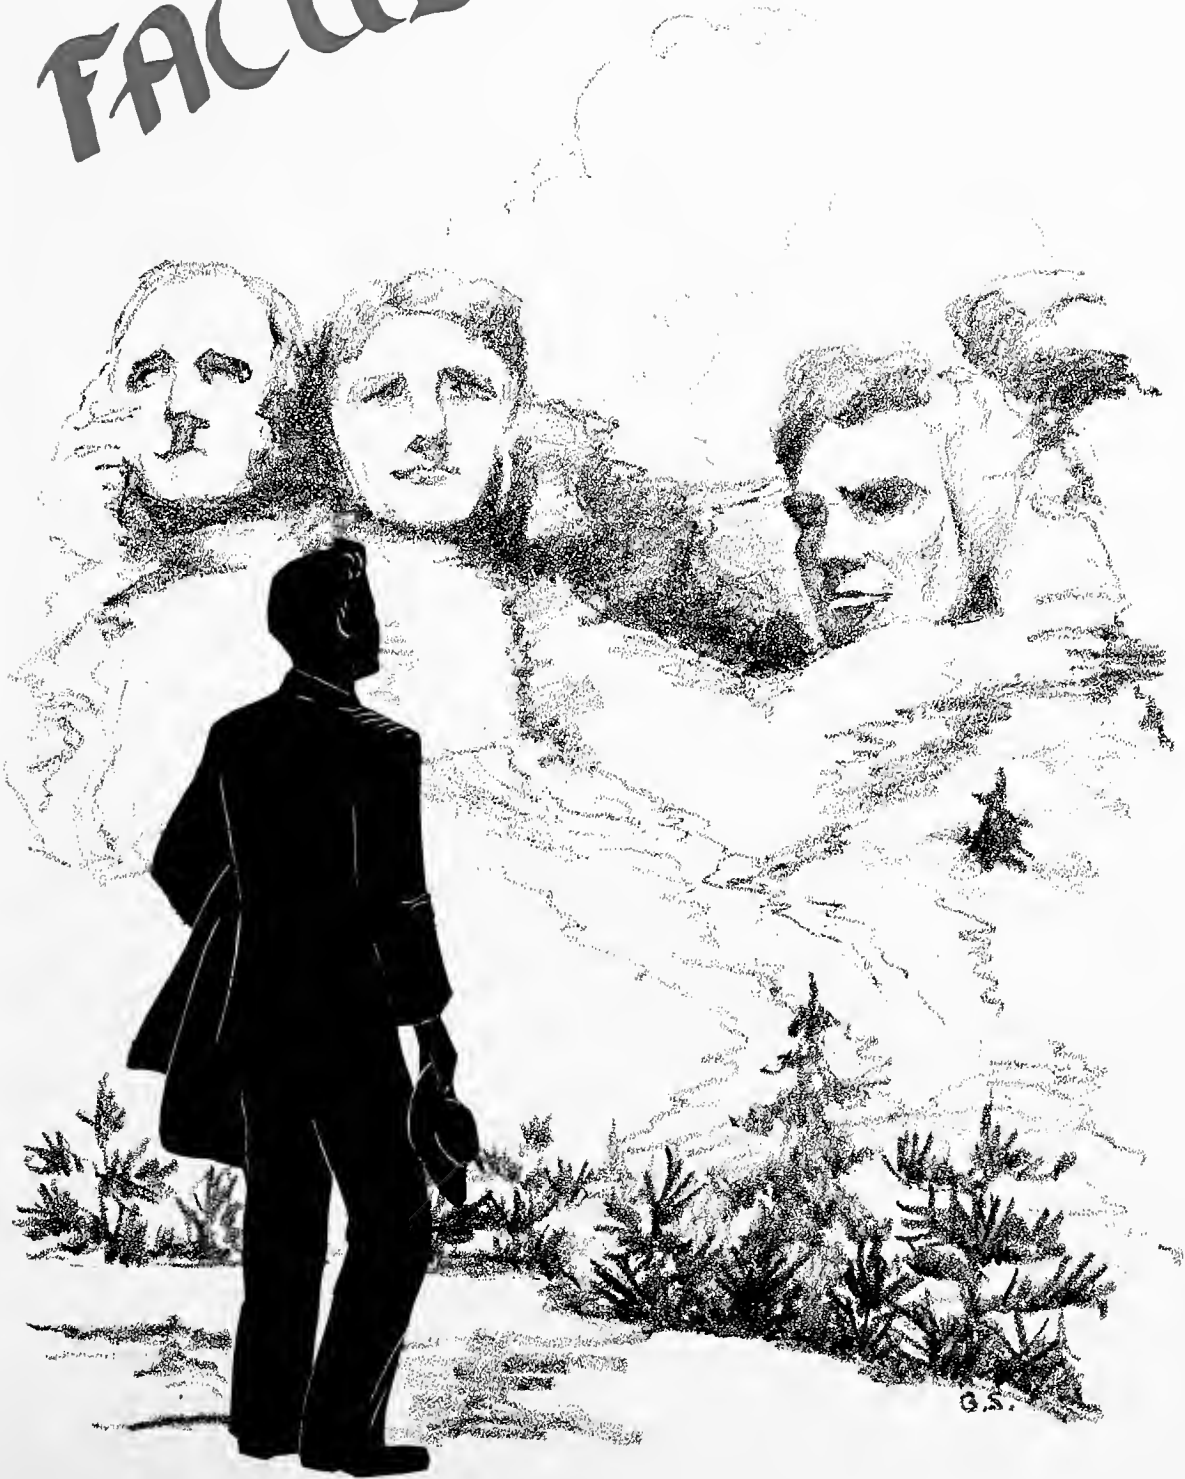

NORTH SIDE HIGH SCHOOL—it is a pile of brick and mortar, dead floors, windows, rails, but it houses the ever-living souls of girlhood and boyhood that are the essence of tomorrow's America. Here lies the foundation for the ideals and leaders of the future, for, through the guidance of the teacher and the school, each generation prepares itself to accept forthcoming responsibilities intelligently and competently.

Scenes that students will long remember when they are no longer at North Side are pictured above. In the picture to the upper left is the majestic entrance to our beautiful building through which our students come and go—and ever return to in memory for, just as the words are engraved upon the top of the building, so are they upon the mind and heart of the boy and girl who have had happy and successful days here.

They shall illustrate democracy & the cosmos

FACULTY

G.S.

Administration

Superintendent

"The future belongs to the youth of today. High school offers to students a fine training in almost any field in which they are interested but building a life and character result from daily gains in that direction. Education is the result of all of those influences, forces, and achievements that attend one and by the responsibilities we seek and share in useful service.

"I have the firm belief that tomorrow will be a good day. America has always risen to great heights from despair, deprivation, war, and hardship. Our greatest America is just ahead", said Mr. Merle J. Abbett in his article published in The Northerner.

Mr. Abbett has tried to secure and to insure this future for us for he has supplied excellent schools and instructors and he has also given of himself in order to promote the success of the battle in which we are now engaged by acting as chairman of the program for the sale of stamps and bonds in Allen County.

Principal

"Only a lot of boys and girls? . . . Only a public school?" Maybe that is what North Side is to some people but not to Mr. Milton H. Northrop. Mr. Northrop plays the great role of "Pop" to his both docile and unruly brood here in the halls of our happy home. Though his task is gigantic and helping students solve their many problems not an easy one, he is always ready to greet one with a cheery smile.

Mr. Northrop's office is located at the head of the main entrance and this is symbolic of his readiness to receive one and all and to give aid where it is needed.

Mr. Northrop has been establishing the policies of the school and administering to its multiple needs since North Side was founded in 1927. During these years of service to America's youth, Mr. Northrop has made an intangible contribution to our country for his sound philosophy and ideals have helped many a lad.

Dean

"To boyhood, girlhood look, the teacher and the school". Realizing that the world today more than ever does look to the school and to America's youth, Miss Victoria Gross offers to each student guidance in right living and in preparing well for the vocational future.

In fulfilling her duties as dean, Miss Gross has supervision of club activities, assemblies, and class functions. Hers is a philosophy of accepting responsibility, of doing a task well, and of rendering service to others. In carrying out these precepts, as well as teaching them to others, she proves herself a "true Redskin."

Parent-Teachers Association

As the financial and moral supporter of North Side, the Parent-Teacher Association is always ready to cooperate in promoting the general welfare of the student body. Some of the members organized a study group for the purpose of discussing and solving any current problems that may arise from youth so that they, the parents and teachers, may be better qualified to help in the character molding of tomorrow's adults.

The organization's most outstanding enterprise this year was the promoting of a fluorescent lighting system for the school. After careful analytical investigation of the present lighting facilities, the P-T. A. petitioned the School Board for improvement and their request was readily granted. The new system will be installed this summer.

This group has also given staunch support to the youth recreation centers which have been established in Fort Wayne during the war-time emergency.

House Of Representatives, Jr.

One of America's great educators said that we learn by doing. If this is true, North Side is providing future citizens early experience in democratic government, for the Student Council participates in the management of school affairs.

Members of the council consist of home room representatives who are elected by popular ballot and of club representatives. This governmental body elects by ballot its own officers and they play an important role in the government of the student body, in the formation of policy, and in attitudes adopted toward any issue that may arise. This is done through radio broadcasts and through assemblies.

Officers who led the council this year were, as shown in the picture to the left, Frank Glasa, president, and Jack Schick, vice-president. Seated are Miss Victoria Gross, dean, Eleanor Evans, secretary, and Mr. Milton H. Northrop, principal.

Desiring to make North Side a grand school to attend and endeavoring to improve its appearance, the Student Council has served the school splendidly this year. It not only provided a contact between the students and the faculty and gave the former a means of participating in the school's government, but it also sponsored some of our most gala events.

Jolly "Get-Acquainted Day," November 3, highlighted the fall calendar and Courtesy Week, one of North Side's best, pepped up March with its merry theme, "Courtesy Can Be Fun."

The Memorial Day Assembly and Junior High Day brought the year's sparkling activity to a highly successful close.

In Memoriam

Mr. Glen Gordy, who died November 5, 1944, had served as a teacher of mathematics at North Side High School since the school was founded in 1927. Mr. Gordy was always ready to give a word of advice and encouragement, and he is remembered for that as well as for his dry and somewhat ironic humor.

Mr. Gordy, who had served in the last World War, was a firm believer in democracy and he knew that its future depended upon education and training. Had he lived he would have been a staunch advocate of compulsory military training, for he was always saying that the Army was a sure cure for anything.

The monument that Mr. Gordy left behind him is an intangible one that is alive in the minds and the spirits of those students who knew him well. Though he is now of the past, he will go into the future in the memories and characters of those he trained and influenced.

Pointing

North Side's teachers illustrate democracy by the equality with which they treat their students, and they interpret to them the ways of life. Top row: Mr. Reeves has a bright smile for the cameraman; Miss Cleary is snapped while in a pensive mood. Center: Mrs. Clark enters study hall.

Center Row: Mrs. Carl Geller, who was Mrs. Clark's successor, checks attendance reports. Miss Furst illustrates what all teachers do—grade papers! Bottom Row: Mr. Mertes uses a red pencil; Miss Bowen reads a passage in Latin; Mr. Harry Thomas enters the woodworking shop.

The Way

Top row: Miss Bash discusses a paper with Delores Gardt; Mr. Whittern pauses for thought; Mr. Thomas performs a demonstration.

Center row: Miss Hazel Plummer, history teacher, and Mrs. Maryann Chapman, business, discuss chart of stamp sales. Miss Frances Plummann, French, checks absences; Mr. Albert Coil, speech head, listens critically to speech. Bottom row: Mr. Sinks fails to get that ball over the net; Miss Pate sits for a moment in the home economics department. Miss Zook illustrates a point in art.

Don Ropa takes a minute out to smile benignly on us all. . . . Last year's grads exchange autographs which in future years will bring back memories of their high school life. . . . The photographer caught Vic McGuire in a pensive mood; must have been thinking about rewriting those Legend stories.

Dora Eisenhut, Shirley Jackson, and Gloria Doty certainly look studious. . . . Cute, blond Margaret Erhardt holds off Bob Weaver (quite a job) . . . Vic McGuire (believe it or not) entertains the student body at the pep session which preceded the sectionals. His feminine charms were no doubt responsible for the encores. . . .

Waiting on their lunch, no doubt, is the usual crowd outside Sandy's. In the foreground are these men-about-town, Carl Thiele, Freddie Kammen, Fred Hess, and Don Johnson.

Snap

Belles of the Ball! These stags, Dick Stalf, Bob Stavenik, Norm Johnston, Maurie Keltsch, Freddie Kammen, and Don Ropa, adorn the chairs at every after-game dance. . . . Milt Brooks and Bob Weaver take life easy on a sunshiny fifth period.

Guides of the '45 class are, seated, Jessie Ormerod, president; Miss Elizabeth Little and Mr. Everett Pennington, advisers; and Dick Vachon, vice-president. Standing are the secretary-treasurer, Bob Stavenik, and the chairman of the social calendar, Lloyd Vogel.

To A Place In The World - -

Tomorrow's success lies within the youth of today, and with this in mind the members of the class of 1945 are now setting forth to find and accept responsibilities in the great world that lies before us like a huge book full of wonders and experiences that are as yet unknown to us.

We are about to prove the worth of David Grayson's words when he said that everyone has a place in the world and no matter how insignificant his job, if he does it to the best of his ability he will be able to take his place in helping to shape the destiny of the world.

Wally Martin and Bob Anspach, because they died during their senior year, have been denied the privilege of accompanying us on our adventurous journey down life's road as we go out to seek our fortunes in commerce, education, government, or science.

Miss Elizabeth Little and Mr. Everett Pennington, our advisers, and Jessie Ormerod, Dick Vachon, Bob Stavenik, and Lloyd Vogel, our officers, deserve vast amounts of credit for leading us so well through our last, most wonderful year here at North Side.

"Pathway to the Stars" was the appropriate theme for our senior banquet which was held at the Trinity English Lutheran Church on January

17. Bob Northrop served as toastmaster for the occasion; Dick Vachon and Bob Stavenik read their hilarious class prophecy; and Milton Brooks, with Ruth Mertz as his accompanist, sang several selections. Speakers for the evening were Miss Mabel Greenwalt, Miss Loraine Foster, Jessie Ormerod, and Don Ropa.

Our delightful senior play, "Ever Since Eve" provided an evening of riotous entertainment for a fully-packed house on February 17. The sparkling cast, under the direction of Miss Margery Suter, included Vic McGuire, Rena Miller, Joe Carkenord, Vergie Lewis, Flo Ann Brown, David Maish, Peggy Watt, Roger Moore, Thaine Ford, Nancy Hayner, Gene Dennis, Bob Northrop, and Wayne Kesler.

At the Senior Assembly the class will was read and the class presented an oil painting of Mr. Northrop to the school.

Our most outstanding social event was the Commencement Dance, which was held the evening of June 2 in the school gymnasium. The baccalaureate sermon was given on Sunday, June 3, and commencement exercises followed on June 5, as we closed the doors forever on our high school days which are now but glowing memories that will be with us always, wherever we may go.

Row 11: Mary Dotson, Delores Ensich, Gloria Erhardt, Virginia Essex, Don Evans, Mary Eversole, Martha Eversole, Clifford Falls.

Row 13: Pat Fraylick, Carol Fulk, Rosemary Gable, Bob Garrard, Arthur Garrett, Jeanine Gething, Tom Gideon, Ruth Geyer.

Row 14: Iris Ginzal, Rosella Goegelein, Anita Grimme, Robert Groves, Rosalyn Grubb, Norma Gruber, Marion Gulseth, Phillip Gutman.

Row 3: Mary Ann Helmke, Priscilla Henry, Richard Hettinger, Charles Hoemig, David Holley, Emalou Holmes, Mary Horne, Mary Hopkins.

Row 4: Cecil Hopper, George Hulfeld, Phyllis Hullinger, Carol Hunsberger, Richard Huser, Marion Hutcheson, Jackie Ireland, Phyllis Irons.

Row 5: Bud Irving, Joan Irving, Maurine Jacobs, Robert Jenkins, Jackie Kanouse, JoAnn Kaylor, Marilyn Krauss, Shirley Keesling.

Row 6: Bonnie Keller, Ruth Keltsch, Mary Keipper, Mary Kirkpatrick, Lynn Klingensmith, Viola Klinger, Gene Knapp, Marilyn Knight.

Row 9: Christine Sprague, Rose Staak, Arden Staley, Bill Steele, Mabel Steel, Sharon Steller, Jack Stellhorn, Maxine Stephan.

Row 10: David Stiffler, Sharon Stockberger, Phil Swinford, Armond Sutton, Jean Sundsmo, Bob Summers, Norma Jean Sullivan, Jean Sturgeon.

Future

Tomorrow's seniors are viewed as seen around our school through the eager watchful eye of the roving photographers. In the first row, left, the girls seem to be engrossed in the many and various activities which crowd the all too few five minutes between classes. To the right, Connie Grimm collects a few timely tips from the dirt box with a grin of anticipation. Someone'll be sorry!

Seated on the bumper are, in row two, LaVon Urbine, who seems to be enjoying her lunch and Ted Carroll, who seems to be enjoying LaVon. In front of Sue's locker, Sue Pressler and Dick Horn are engaged in a very deep conversation!

"And in this corner" we have Don Mansfield and Marilyn Nichols. To their right are "the gals at the end of the hall," Virginia Franke, Margaret Treesh, Lois Hall, Connie Grimm, Barbara Koons, and Pat McComb.

Second Row: Just another family quarrel between Don Poffenberger and Catherine Curdes; Arden Staley and Don Seabold, background, seem pop-eyed about the whole affair. Too bad Marge Winner had a class and wasn't home—the poor kids had to sit out in the cold. Yet Pat Johnson, Phil Boedeker, Betty Eversole, Marie Winje, Pat Winter, and Joanne Smith don't seem to mind too much.

Third Row: Just part of the eternal activities at noon in the spring is demonstrated by Esther McGuire, Jane Morell, and a friend. Three pretty lassies try hard to out-dimple each other. Since Phil Boedeker has moved far, far away, Carolyn Pridgeon, left, and Pat Johnson, center, are trying hard to carry on the tradition of the Three Musketeers.

Fourth Row: Pat McComb and Linton Grummons seem amused even if Connie Grimm, center, doesn't catch on. Jackie Thomas is having quite a time getting her coat from an admirer.

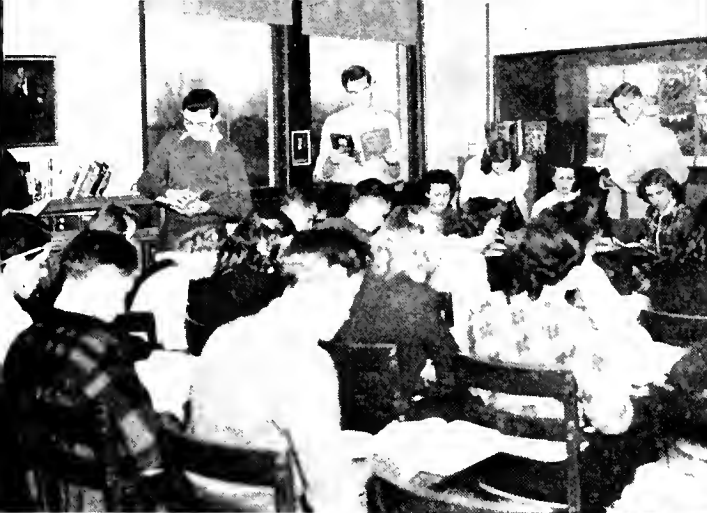

Classes

Middle Row: Preparation for class as well as for the future goes on in library; Mr. Coil's English class gives a chalk talk; Mr. Reeves' comptometer class practices the art.

At Work

Middle Row: Mr. Simon's bookkeeping class puts on board its daily records; sewing class learns to make a fine seam; Mr. Chance teaches a class in music appreciation.

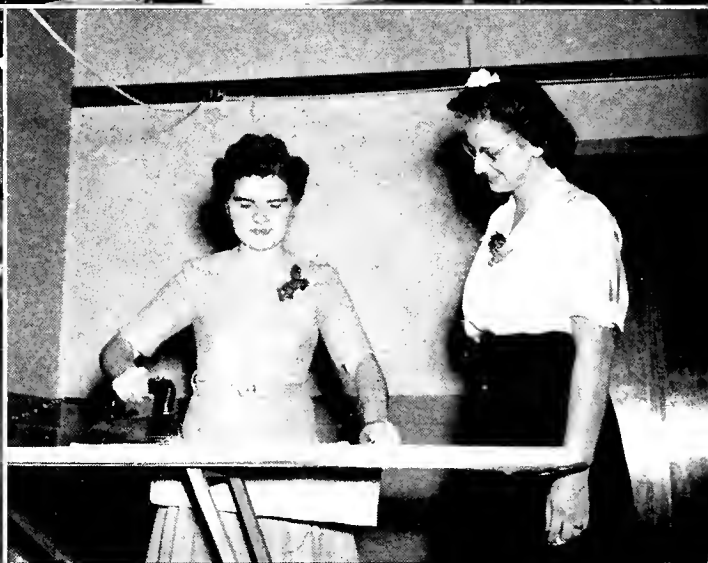

Bottom Row: Girls learn physiology in health class, and they also learn typing.

Learning For

Today's and tomorrow's scientific world has given mathematics a new importance; in the top row, to the left, a student in Miss Sites' trig class elucidates. Miss Plummer's history class keeps up with the world with maps.

Middle Row. Students use study hall in free periods for work. Future homemakers learn art of ironing.

Bottom Row. Band practices formations for the big day. Mr. Whittern's physical geography class learns more about our world.

- - Living Tomorrow

Middle Row: Mr. Thomas and student bend glass to make laboratory equipment. English class supplements textual matter with slides.

ACTIVITIES

That Our Youth May Live Forever

By ROBERT M. NORTHROP, Editor

The 1945 Legend is a record of some thirteen hundred of America's youth—a record of their achievements, in the classroom and on the athletic field, of their work and their ambitions, of their every-day lives.

They know that they stand on the threshold of a new era, one more glorious than the Golden Age of Greece, more brilliant than the saga of the opening of the West, if they will only make it so. How great are the possibilities—in politics, in science, in art and literature, in man's concept of God and his relations with God. By virtue of that mysterious something that is youth, they will succeed.

The staff which produced this yearbook typifies the spirit of youth. In a year of war, and of shortages in manpower and in materials, the members of the staff increased their efforts. They worked evenings and during spring vacation, and they learned that, as a result of their ordering early, the last allotment of red leather in the United States was to be used on The Legend. Over twelve hundred and fifty subscriptions were amassed, and the staff sent its book to press a month earlier than is customary in peacetime years. This is the spirit that will "lick the world" tomorrow.

But youth, as all else, does not seem to last. The world is full of broken, disappointed, disillusioned people, with nothing of youth in them. It is my hope that from these pages something of the spirit of youth may spread to all of this generation and of the next and of the next. That is the purpose of the 1945 Legend—that youth may truly live forever.

"Watch the birdie. All right now, smile. OK, hold it. . . ." is the line used by Stan Thompson when performing his photographic duties. . . . Miss Bernice Sinclair, art instructor, lends a helping hand to Elinor Houser and Geraldine Smith, designers and painters of "all the purty pictures" on the division pages. . . . Joan Schaberg and Norm Johnston mix fun with work when they "see the sights" as they sort Legend senior pictures. . . .

Assistant editor Peggy Watt goes to work on the dummy, reading and correcting all the year-book copy. . . . Peck, peck, peck goes the typewriter as Jim Schwartz, member of the circulation staff, helps bring the subscription file up to date. . . .

Future Photographers In Focus

Tuesday afternoon usually has its great lens focused upon the photofiends among us as they candidly stalk their prey in the halls. Along about ten years from now these geniuses of the camera will undoubtedly be well situated in the great world of photography if they keep on snapping their shutters with the same photomagnificent results that they now have.

Camera Clubbers are always on their best behavior, for they are in constant danger of exposure to the double lens of Miss Marian Bash, adviser. Miss Bash, who has definitely proven herself to be a whiz at photography, really gets a big kick out of her amateurs' antics.

All is not play for them, however, and the entire school is indebted to them for the educational movies which are shown in the classrooms.

The Camera Club also sponsors two movie sensations a year. This year they featured "The Count of Monte Cristo" and "How Green Was My Valley".

Tramping Life's Open Road

In the bottom picture, Mr. Howard Michaud gives a demonstration of the Seoscope which is used for projection of slides and materials. James Craig, Wade Prentice, David Ruoff, John Berles, and John Harper, members of the club, are watching and listening to the demonstration which is just one more interesting experience of the many that Nature Club affiliates have.

In spring, summer, and fall members of Nature Club haunt the great out-of-doors, for theirs is a never-ending search for something new and different in the way of flowers, birds, or trees. They spend hours roaming through parks or on the river bank and hiking in the country.

Mother Nature with her fascinating mysteries can keep no secret from these fellows, nor does she try. Her myriad wonders are for the world to see and the pleasures and delightful hours spent close to her are for the world to share. So taking full advantage of her priceless offers nature-lovers gain a thorough appreciation of life's beauty and prepare themselves to live cleaner, better, happier lives as they store up their rich harvests of knowledge and understanding.

Miss Vesta Thompson and Mr. Howard Michaud, being themselves ardent devotees of nature, are always on hand to answer questions and to explain new things to their young proteges as well as to delve deeper into the ways of nature.

Scientific Wizards Of Tomorrow

In the bottom picture Mr. Thomas is fiendishly diverting Fred Hess' attention while fellow club members, Norm Johnston and Bob Stavenik, give him a scientific hotfoot.

Ear-splitting explosions, nauseating odors, blinding flashes of light, and teachers with threadbare nerves are all products of our famous Phy-Chem Club.

At present these budding young scientists are combining their research with fun, but in the years ahead, if they pursue their scientific interests, they will undoubtedly play leading roles in progressive industry and everyday life.

Their informative programs this year included valuable demonstrations on glass, acids, and bases, the effects of ultra-violet rays, and a Christmas party that suffered because Mr. Thomas and the boys couldn't get their electric chair to work on Pat Prange.

Mr. Pressler and Mr. Thomas have a great time keeping up with their enterprising pranksters but knowing how well everyone likes chemistry, Mr. Thomas just never has been able to figure out why members of Phy-Chem are always trying to blow up his laboratory. . . . Should they tell him the awful truth?

Who provides zip and zest at football games? Who satisfies the sweet tooth of the crowds at the basketball games? You guessed it, brothers and sisters—it's the Booster Club!

This organization of organizations is under the very capable leadership of Mr. Noel Whittern. With the mighty mentor at the wheel, the club sells cokes, candy bars, ice cream, popcorn and all the things that go to make a good time for all.

This year the club had a membership roster of one hundred and eighty-eight members, the largest in the history of the school. The members who are considered the best (by accumulating 100 points) are given a gold "B" at the end of the school year.

The cheerleaders, led by Mr. John DeLong, really deserve a good deal of praise for the marvelous work they have done throughout the year. The varsity yell team for this year was: Joseph Carkenord, James Schwartz, and Frederick Ransbottom. The scrubs were: Dick Sauers, Jim Robbins, and Dick Vogt.

Extemporaneously Speaking

Junior Forensic League, one of the newer organizations at North Side, is for members of the speech department who are just beginning their career in speech work. Its activities have broadened each year until today it stands as one of the most prominent groups on the roster.

Those elected to guide the organization for the second semester were: Steve Ayers, president; Jack Fishering, vice-president; Mary Ann Helmke, secretary-treasurer; Ed Geller, publicity chairman; and Barbara Jo Yost, social chairman.

JFL always produces a fine crop of orators and this year was no exception. In addition to debating, the principal fall activity of the members is the Freshman-Sophomore Extemporaneous Contest. Barbara Jo Yost captured the first place; Leona Alexander took second place; and Karl Bradley emerged with a third to his credit.

The semi-monthly programs have consisted of speeches, declamations, and debates under the direction of Miss Irene Miller, adviser.

Most of the JFL members later join the National Forensic League which may have its Ciceros—but even they should be on their toes when a former JFL member starts to speak.

Words Will Be Our Weapons

To the hard-working officers goes much credit for the success of the National Forensic League's activities this year. In the picture to the left, they are: seated, Vergie Lewis, president, and Mr. Albert A. Coil, adviser; standing, Walt Helmke, vice-president, Barbara Schlatter, publicity chairman, Marge Winner, historian, and Flo Ann Brown, secretary. Clarence Kopp, treasurer, and Eleanor Evans, point recorder, are not shown.

In the top picture, below, Ralph Auer, Al Adams, Adair Cummins, and Jerry Angell discuss some of the debate strategy which they used to such good advantage during the season. These boys were on the team that won the State Debating League championship this year.

In the bottom picture below, two out-of-town guests are being introduced by Vergie Lewis to Priscilla Hunt and Noah Liff, just before the debate.

Everyone is exposed to speaking at one time or another. After all, what of our organism is more used than our orifice? Words can be potent weapons, and National Forensic League teaches the art of usage, of logic, and of analysis of the words of others. It also stresses scholarship.

N. F. L. is the place where all good J. F. L. members should land when they become juniors. Everyone in the club is supposed to enter at least one inter-school contest and one school contest.

The winners of the Extemp Contest this year were Don Ropa, senior; Adair Cummings, junior; Noah Liff and Hannah Frankenstein, who tied for sophomore contest; and Barbara Jo Yost, who won the freshman contest.

Other contests that North Side participated in this year were the invitational meet at South Side; the State N. F. L. meet, and the Legion Contest.

Officers for the last year were Vergie Lewis, president; Walt Helmke, vice-president; Flo Ann Brown, secretary; Clarence Kopp, treasurer, though Bob Northrop, point recorder, became treasurer when he left for college; Marge Winner, historian, and Barbara Schlatter, publicity.

Red Cross Rockets To Success

The Junior Red Cross, more important than ever because of the war, carried out, with record-breaking success, their activities this year.

"With the next click of the clock, the Red Cross War Game will open with a bang . . ." And bang! The very force of the terrific explosion sent North Side hurtling over the top of its $700 goal in the March National Red Cross Drive to set a record for the entire school city! Indeed, every Red Cross benefit this year was started—and finished—with a bang.

Remember the magnificent results of the book and game drive for disabled servicemen at Christmastime? And after that, how the Redskins rallied again to send school supplies and gifts to war refugees? And how North Side came smashing through with a grand total of $311.53 in the March of Dimes campaign?

It was the Junior Red Cross, under the leadership of Miss Judith Bowen and her delightful originality, that was back of those rip-roaring contests that made the Red Cross Drives of the year royal entertainment for everyone. So fired are they with enthusiasm and good will that theirs will always be a job well-done for a worthy cause—now and in the future.

Fellowship, Leadership, Service

Qualities which are needed in our war-torn world of today and in the peaceable world of tomorrow are comprised in the four goals of Polar-Y, namely, fellowship, Christian character, leadership, and service. Members of Polar-Y are preparing themselves to have the warmth and friendliness of our club felt everywhere. As we are a branch of the Young Women's Christian Association, we take part in their work too.

Our service projects are many. At Christmas and Thanksgiving we have cheered many hearts of the poor. Through the Needle Work Guild, our aid has reached many other homes.

We've had our fun on the social side too: for example, our "Peace Pipe Pow Wow" dance. Our team scored a victory over Central and then we smoothed it over and made peace with our dance.

Another big event was our annual "Tournament Twirl" conducted by all of the Girl Reserves of the city. Polar-Y has been very fortunate in having as its helpful advisers, Miss Marie Ehle, Miss Loraine Foster, and Miss Geneva Burwell.

Scanning The Literary Horizons

Helicon executives for the first semester were, seated, Miss Mildred Huffman, adviser; Don Ropa, president; Eleanor Evans, vice-president, and Lucille Lemke, secretary. Standing are Peggy Watt, social chairman; Carolyn Crosby, critic; Dorothy Hoffman, membership chairman, and Joan Schaberg, publicity chairman. Maurice Keltch was president for the second semester.

In the top picture below, Althea Berning, Eleanor Evans, Ralph Auer, and Irwin Deister listen to Doris Long's speech at the Washington-Lincoln Assembly.

The bottom picture shows Don Scott, Pete Bowman, and Ted Carroll, members of the stage crew who assisted with the assembly, standing behind Carolyn Crosby, Marilyn Doerfler, Joan Schaberg, Jean Sparling, and Ramona Harshman, who planned the program and the costumes. Joan Schaberg was chairman of the entire affair.

Helicon Club's literary-minded members command the ranks on the cultural side of North Side's life. Realizing the need for a good background of literature to gain true appreciation of the world's classic arts, these students have directed their efforts and activities so as to gain a better understanding of the past and current literature of the world.

This year's diversified programs included discussions of plays and poetry, the reviews of Walter Lippmann's "U. S. Foreign Policy," Sumner Welles' "Time for Decision," and a discussion designed to show the inter-relation of music and literature. With the aid of Miss Mabel Greenwalt and Miss Mildred Huffman, members selected and discussed Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" for their annual masterpiece.

Mrs. A. T. Keene reviewed "Anna and the King of Siam" for the group at the November meeting and Professor W. A. Hansen spoke before them at the spring tea.

Helicon paid tribute to Washington and Lincoln at an assembly which was acclaimed by the student body as one of the best presented at North Side.

Up And Coming Young Diplomats

Standing, left to right, behind Miss Hazel Plummer and Miss Katharine Rothenberger, the Pan-American advisers, are the club's officers for the first semester, Jerry Angell, vice-president and chairman of the program committee; Dorothy Hoffman, president; Althea Berning, secretary; and Van Bechtel, treasurer.

Van Bechtel was president for the second semester; Al Adams, vice-president; Steve Ayers, secretary; and Althea Berning, treasurer.

In the top picture below, a group of enthusiastic girls have gone into a huddle to discuss plans for the evening at the annual Pan-American after-game dance for which Dot Hoffman was chairman. In the bottom picture, James Turner, Mary Eunice Crankshaw, Margaret Goodwin, Bill Klinkenberg, Joyce Tindall, Wilma Krueger, Ralph Auer, and Don Ruble watch Inge Sahlmann as she discusses an interesting fact about Brazil.

In this day and age, we of North America should look to better unity with our neighbors to the south, the people of Latin America. The objective of the Pan-American Club is the promotion of unity through better knowledge of these countries, their government, commerce, and outstanding features of culture.

In the future when the members of Pan-American have assumed the responsibilities of citizenship and have begun to form our national policies, or have become diplomats, this knowledge and this understanding will be invaluable aids to international solidarity.

With the end of this world conflict will come the increase in international trade. Kaiser will build his flying mammoths, as well as his ships; housewives will run down to Rio, perhaps to go shopping! No country in the world will be more than five or six hours from our local air port! The need will be great for broadminded and understanding citizens who can promote better understanding.

Pan-American Club is, therefore, looking to the future and is paving the way for amiable relationships in the Western Hemisphere.

Sportsmanship And Straight Shooting

Boys shown in the bottom cut are getting training that will be valuable to them in wartime and in peace, for they are trained not only to shoot but to aim at the fulfillment of all the rules that make a man a good sportsman. All gunmen learn the sportsman's code which seeks to instill more humane ideals for riflemen and a knowledge of ways to insure greater safety.

When the weather begins to get cold in October, Mr. Hyrle Ivy and Mrs. Grace Bridges, sponsors of North Side's Rifle Club, begin their teaching of straight shooting and good sportsmanship. After a few weeks of practice, the marksmen immediately begin to get a bead on the respective awards offered by the National Rifle Association, of which the Rifle Club is a member.

The bobby-socks brigade has invaded this club and, under the instruction of Mrs. Bridges, has brought forth some of the Club's finest "hair-splitters." Lila Lee Hanselman has advanced to the standing position with Virginia Einhorn, Rose Ann Higgins, and Joan Sundsmo close behind.

The "Bulls-eye" boys, under Mr. Ivy's tutelage, have made some extraordinary advances. Leading marksmen are Louis Kissinger, Verle Wright, and Cal Werling, who have all advanced to standing position. Mr. Ivy was assisted through the season by Norm Johnston who is holder of the highest honor attainable, The Distinguished Rifleman's Award.

When the group of musicians sponsored a dance this year they gave it some rousing publicity when they marched through the halls and played suggestive music on their instruments. In the bottom picture Robert Breese, Edward Bradley, Portia Smith, Stan Groves, Eugene Munro, and Gordon Coats were snapped in the act.

To students who are not familiar with the band, its clocklike precision of rehearsals may seem impossible, but to band members it is just an accepted fact, for the work and demands of N. S. I. are well-known by instrumental students.

North Side Instrumentalists is an honorary music club, under the direction of Mr. Robert Shambaugh, which serves as the governing body of the band. Membership is based on attitude toward practicing, scholarship, and initiative as directed toward improving the band or orchestra.

Members encourage practicing among band members and good discipline at all rehearsals. During free periods, members help beginning musicians, instruct students who have difficulty in marching, and file music. During the current year, members rewrote the Constitution. They also moved into and prepared the new room for rehearsals.

Members of N. S. I. seek no merit for themselves; they are merely interested in the welfare of the music department.

Life Begins At Eight-Thirty

Every dramatic production requires not only long hours of practicing but much thought and planning before that can begin. In the picture to the right, Miss Margery Suter, director of dramatics in the public high schools, and Kay Packer, president of the Student Players Club, discuss with pleasure the plans for a forthcoming student production.

A beautiful Christmas comedy, "The Empty Gesture," was presented on December 17 to the student body. In the top cut below, David Maish, Thaine Ford, Jean McComb, and Jackie Zimmerman are caught in a scene.

"The Wish Shop", a girls' fall one-act, was given as an assembly program and was also presented for the visiting parents on "Back to School Night." Members of the cast shown below, left to right, are Flo Ann Brown, Rena Mae Miller, Jessie Ormerod, Gene A. Zimmerman, Nancy Hayner, and Jean McComb.

"Cast on Stage, Please!" It's eight-thirty, the time to do or die. You either have talent or you have cold feet. Either is uncomfortable. For life behind the scenes is not a bowl of cherries, but rather a can of grease paint with an abundance of frayed nerves thrown in for good measure. Just ask any SPC member. For the Student Players' Club is to North Side what Broadway is to New York—almost. Its activities are many and varied—we act.

At each meeting a previously appointed committee produces a one-act play. These endeavors are usually extremely amusing—not because the play itself is funny, but because nine times out of ten, the play was rehearsed the first time the night before. That's a secret!

Under Miss Suter's critical eye, our future Alfred Lunts and Lynne Fontaines of the senior class revealed their remarkable talents in the one-acts, the Christmas play, and that success of successes, "Ever Since Eve," the senior play.

This would not be complete without a word about the stage crew. They do the heaviest work and get the least notice. But without them, SPC would be like bread without butter—pre-war, of course.

Worthy Scribes

Twelve seniors who merited election to Quill and Scroll for their work on both The Northerner and The Legend are shown at the left. In front, Ramona Harshman, Peggy Watt, Doris Long, Carol Havens, Dot Hoffman, Ken Morrow, Norm Johnston, and Stan Thompson. In rear, Bob Northrop, Marilyn Curdes, and Lucille Lemke.

Ramona and Doris have served as circulation managers of the Northerner and Legend, respectively. Peggy published The Northerner the first semester, while Carol, as publisher, and Dot, as managing editor, took over for the second. Ken has struggled along as sports editor, while Lucille is copy-editor. Norm is Legend business manager, and Marilyn holds the corresponding job on The Northerner. Bob acts as Legend publisher, and also as photographer with Stan.

Writing their way to fame and fortune, North Side's contributions to the journalistic realms look quite promising this season. Several of our more promising young men and women of letters have already carried off their first laurels with their admittance to 1500 Club as a result of scribbling off 1500 points worth of copy for The Northerner.

Of this group, Peggy Watt, Carol Havens, Lucille Lemke, Dorothy Hoffman, Doris Long, and Ramona Harshman won top honors when Miss Sylvia E. Bowman, publication director, presented them with their gold jeweled pins, signifying that they had earned 10,000 points on publications work.

The charmed circle of Quill and Scroll added twelve North Side senior scribes to its nation-wide membership roster this year because of their prominence in work on the staffs of the newspaper and the year book, as well as for their scholastic ability.

Quill and Scroll, the international honor society for high school journalists, was organized April 10, 1926. It is international in scope and is connected with no school or university. Local chapters have been established in more than two thousand schools in every state and territory of the United States, and in Canada, China, Cuba, England, and New Zealand. Twenty thousand young journalists, from schools outstanding in the quality of their publication work, wear the Quill and Scroll badge.

These honored journalists are looking forward to the day when they may prove to the world that "the pen is mightier than the sword" as they find their places in tomorrow's domain of copywriters and authors.

Third Row: Bob Northrop, Edel Winje, Lois Chrisman, Ken Morrow, and Carol Havens.

And They Shall

The pianist of the orchestra has one of the most difficult roles to fill. Upon her depends the rhythm of the instrumental group and the rendition of the foundation of the orchestration.

Seated at the large grand piano are the pianists of the school orchestra, Betty Long and Marilyn Krauss, upon whom the responsibility of this position falls.

Many students in North Side, through exercising their love of music, have gained an inward peace and appreciation of the more beautiful things of life that will be a lifelong cultural influence.

The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Robert Shambaugh, has been a source of pleasure both to its members and to those who have had the privilege of hearing this fine musical group perform in concerts and student assemblies.

On February 9th, the orchestra and A Cappella choir presented the second in its series of concerts. Three student soloists were featured with the orchestra. They were: Patricia Dunten, flute; Dorothy Hoffman, marimba; and Dorothy Holcomb, cello.

The school orchestra, supplemented by an organ and piano, comprised the instrumental division of the Easter Cantata, given in the Northside auditorium on two nights, March 23rd and 24th. The composition presented was "The Seven Last Words," portraying the last words of Christ as He died on the cross. This group also took part in the Spring Festival along with the entire music department.

Have Music Wherever They Go

Center: Joan Rockey, Gloria Klaus, Robert Halter, Patricia Dunten, Fritz Aker, Eugene Munro, Dorothy Holcomb.

Orchestral soloists, pictured to the right, who add variety to the programs given by the orchestra are, standing, Patricia Dunten and Fritz Aker, both of whom are accomplished flutists.

Dorothy Holcomb, who plays the cello, and Joan Rockey, first violinist, are capable of filling solo roles. Joan is also a piano major.

To The Clashing Of

Looks like the maestro himself, doesn't he? Mr. Robert Shambaugh, snapped as he directed the band at a pep session, is director of the band and orchestra. A former graduate of North Side, he proves that our school provides for its future!

This fall Mr. Shambaugh became the proud inhabitant of a sound-proof practice room, and that is where he is to be found.

The North Side High School band, under the direction of Mr. Robert Shambaugh, has brought plenty of good music and just plain easy listening to thousands of football and basketball fans throughout the year. Mr. Shambaugh has added several new marches and peppy tunes to the aggregation's library, among which is the ever popular "Boogie Woogie Band."

Of course, no school band is complete without some beautiful twirlers to complete the scene! The twirlers, led by Baton Captain Ellen Schaffhauser, have added a great deal to the band's appearance in parades and at the games with their precise and attractive formations.

The concert band made its first appearance on October 20th, at the presentation of a national citation of the War Music Council of America to the band and A Cappella choir.

On December 9th, the band appeared in the first of a series of regularly scheduled music department concerts. During the year the band marched in a number of parades, and made its final appearance of the year at the Spring Festival on May 14th.

Cymbals And The Beat Of A Drum

Seated: Patricia Schaefer, Dick Seeger, Jack Beckstein, Paul Moeder, Patricia McConnel, Dick Crowell, Gene Knapp, and Dick Horn.

"Specialties coming up" could well be the answer of these able musicians pictured to the left for they are capable of filling a request for solos or for a quartette.

Scaling Heights

He seems pleased—and he should be, for Mr. Varner Chance, director of A Cappella and head of the music department, brought honor to North Side this fall when the organization received a national award.

Long hours, hard work, patience, study, and good cheer—these are probably his guides to success—and to that of the group as a whole.

A Cappella choir, directed by Mr. Varner Chance, is one of the outstanding choral groups in the country, as was proven when they received a citation from the War Music Council of America last October. The members of the choir shall never cease to enjoy the benefits that they have gained from being a part of such a splendid organization.

All voices are blended into either a barely audible whispering tone or a lusty sound of joy, just by a flick of the director's wrist. The sound of the A Cappella choir can be likened unto the music of a perfectly tuned organ, so well blended are the voices of its chosen members.

This group has sung many songs and programs throughout the year. They were sponsored by Koerber's Jewelry Store in another series of radio concerts. On February 9th, the choir presented a concert featuring a newly formed boys' quartet.

On March 23rd and 24th, the choral groups united to present Theodore Dubois' Easter Cantata, "The Seven Last Words." They also appeared at the annual Spring Festival held May 14th.

Unimagined On The Wings Of Song

Second Row: N. Murrell, R. Nidlinger, B. McComb, D. Desmonds, G. Gilbreath, G. Henricks, M. Van Lear, A. Berning, J. Greene, S. Gardiner, C. Sundsmo, P. McComb, D. Reasoner, S. Haycox, F. A. Brown, J. Putman, M. Dudenhoefer, S. Pressler.

Standing: V. Smith, D. Longsworth, R. Crowell, J. Parrot, J. McCallister, J. Wolfe, G. Mundt, D. Grant, G. Sparling, Leonard Horn, R. Naugle, P. Pinkus, N. Smith, W. Achelman, W. Bauermeister, R. Rice, G. Dennis, J. Gilberg, Philip Worley, M. Brooks.

Remember the soloist in "Ballad for Americans"? Milton Brooks, baritone, pictured to the right, sang his way into the memory of Redskins in that role and with other songs he sang at concerts and assemblies.

Though Milton is in the Army now, he plans to make the study of music an essential when he returns to civilian life.

"Copy's Due Today"

"Hey! Toss me the scissors—I gotta cut a mess of proof!" The melodious yodeling of a soul in dire distress is a common sound in Room 113. There is a great deal of work connected with publishing a newspaper, and no one is more aware of the fact than Miss Sylvia E. Bowman, faculty adviser of The Northerner. Grey hairs appear rapidly in the newspaper business!

The banners of the North Side publications are resplendent with honor ratings from this year and the past. From the Quill and Scroll, the International Honor Award and the Gallup Award for distinguished service in advancing the war aims of the school were received. The Columbia Scholastic Press Association gave The Northerner a first-class rating and All-Columbian honors for creative writing. The National Scholastic Press Association assigned the paper first-class award, meaning that The Northerner is an excellent paper.

One of the critics said, "Your paper is alert, interesting, and has a personality all its own!" This goes to show that the North Side students and those who are active in Northerner work can be justly proud of the achievements of the paper.

Peggy Watt was appointed publisher for the first semester and Carol Havens the second semester. The present editors are: Ken Morrow, Priscilla Hunt, Pat Johnson, Marilyn Curdes, and Evelyn Aiken.

All in all, the gang in 113 does a great deal of work and is amply rewarded in the paper they turn out and in the pleasure of doing it. No matter what mood he may be in, the staff member will always hear this little ditty running through his mind: "C'mon brother! Get busy . . . copy's due today!"

In second row, Nancy Lewis and Eleanor Evans, home room agents, fold paper; Mary M. Miller makes up editorial page.

In the bottom row of pictures, Pat Harrison, Eleanor Heine, and Annette Rondot look over the files; Joan Pence and Margaret Skelly prepare the mailing list.

In the picture in the lower left hand corner, the hub-bub that precedes the call to order of a staff meeting. Can't you hear them?

Redskin

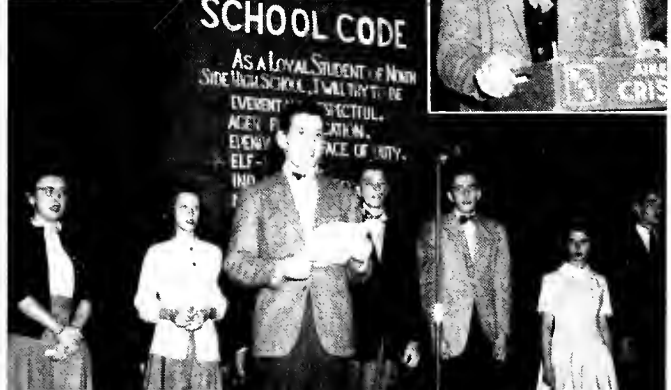

Banquet, while Jack Waggoner waits for the punch line with glee.

Bob Whitehouse, Jim Lillevig, and two nameless persons gather around Alonzo W. Pond, noted archaeologist, to hear more about his adventures. Mr. George W. Davis recites Riley's poems. "Move it a little to the left, no, not too much," directs Don Ropa to Rowene Crabill. Vergie Lewis concentrates on figuring out whether a green light looks all right in that spot.

"One burger, two cones." Orders come flying at Sandy during the noon rush, although it looks comparatively quiet now. Sue Pressler flashes her Ipana smile at the photographer, while Nancy Lewis thinks up a better sales talk. One of the most important occasions in the school year. Class officers take their oaths and the classes join in on the school code.

NSI spikes hup, two, three, four, to advertise the successful Music Department Dance. One of our most beloved teachers, "Silent Sam" Mosher lives up to his name at last year's National Honor

Rotogravure

Now don't be scared. It's only, in top row, left to right, the Helicon assembly where Al Adams, Noah Liff, Van Bechtel, Boyd Willoughby, and Adair Cummins portray the parts of some of our famous men of history, although one wonders what scared Van. Joe Carlenord looks mighty surprised. Who wouldn't be, when some one interrupted you amongst a bevy of beauties like Sally Combs, Pat Dunten, and Miss X. Doris Stonebreaker and Dot Osterhaus are trusted with the s c h o o l money. Wouldn't it be wonderful to run your hands through all that money?

Wonder what Mr. Laney, second row, finds so interesting in Gene Himmelstein, or is it the peculiar expression? Mr. Mertes, Miss Little, Lloyd Vogel, Lucille Lemke, and Mrs. Bridges are the other recognizable people at the National Honor Banquet. Parents get an idea of the troubles we have in the cafeteria line when they come to 'Back to School Night.' "And the lucky number is - -!" Lucky indeed, for it meant some freshie would get to go to the Sectional games.

Watch where you're throwing that pear, Mr. Parker. Look at them go—too bad an alumnus can't do this more often.

From the blank expressions on the faces of Lloyd Vogel, Norm Pfeiffer, Betty Blaising, and Frank Glasa this dance must be rather tiring. However, Doris Robbins seems intrigued by Jack Vandenberg's hands. Who isn't?

"Who won tonight, who got a bulls-eye?" Mrs. Bridges marks up the scores in rifle practice.

Active

Testing weights, or what have you, are, top row, Bob Stavenik, Dick Vachon, Norm Johnston, and Maurice Keltsch. Two noses get together in the great outdoors, accompanied, of course, by their owners, Carl Thiele, and Norm Johnston. Maurice Keltsch, Gene Ann Zimmerman, Larry Colip, and Lucille Lemke at the Helicon Washington-Lincoln Assembly.

Speakers of tomorrow are, second row, Bob Laws, Flo Ann Brown, Bob Beyer, Walt Helmke, and Ted Michaud. From the look of all the papers in front of them, they must be debating the subject, "How to prepare an income tax blank." Ah, spring, and with it comes the usual lazy attitude of everybody in general. Marilyn Eicher, Bob Lambert, Don Grimm, and Bud Leininger sit up while Bill Mansfield uses Don for a pillow. After every week's hectic rush, Marge Winner smiles as she makes out the Northerner ads. In the insert is Eleanor Evans receiving that all important National Honor Pin from Connie Conklin.

Doris Long, third row, accepts the honor plaque for her Home Room 335. Did somebody say something funny? At least our Mr. Northrop seems to think so.

At the courtesy assembly Jack Schick, Frank Glasa, Mr. Pressler, Peggy Watt, Eleanor Evans, and Mr. Chance topped off the week with a bang.

Lives

Cramping for a test? Hanna Frankenstein and Marilyn Stanger curl up on the window to find out what "X" means. Come on, band, the kids want to dance. In spring, Jim Tellman's fancy turned to Marilyn Curdes at the Junior Prom.

That information desk is surely interesting say Susie White and Betty Poag, as they smile away their time. Oh, is that where that sulphur smell comes from? Sarah Cover and Dick Stalf demonstrate the art of chemistry.

Miss Bash and her camera company are, no doubt, taking time out to get a new view on the frankfurter. "Courtesy Can Be Fun," or so this group of Emily Post's points out. Two of our cute Junie lasses, Dean Spaulding and Shirley Woodring, smile for the birdie.

This may not be according to Hoyle, but show me a boy who would like them otherwise. Jitterbuggin' by two masters—Florence Gresham and Harold Zimmerman. The band must be playing something sweet and low, for most all the kids are dancing.

Featured are the beauties of the senior play. Rena Miller, Nancy Hayner, Peggy Watt, and Flo Brown. Keepers of those accounts are Joan Schaberg, Ramona Harshman, Norman Johnston, and Bob Northrop who found out that money can't be juggled.

WAR ACTIVITIES

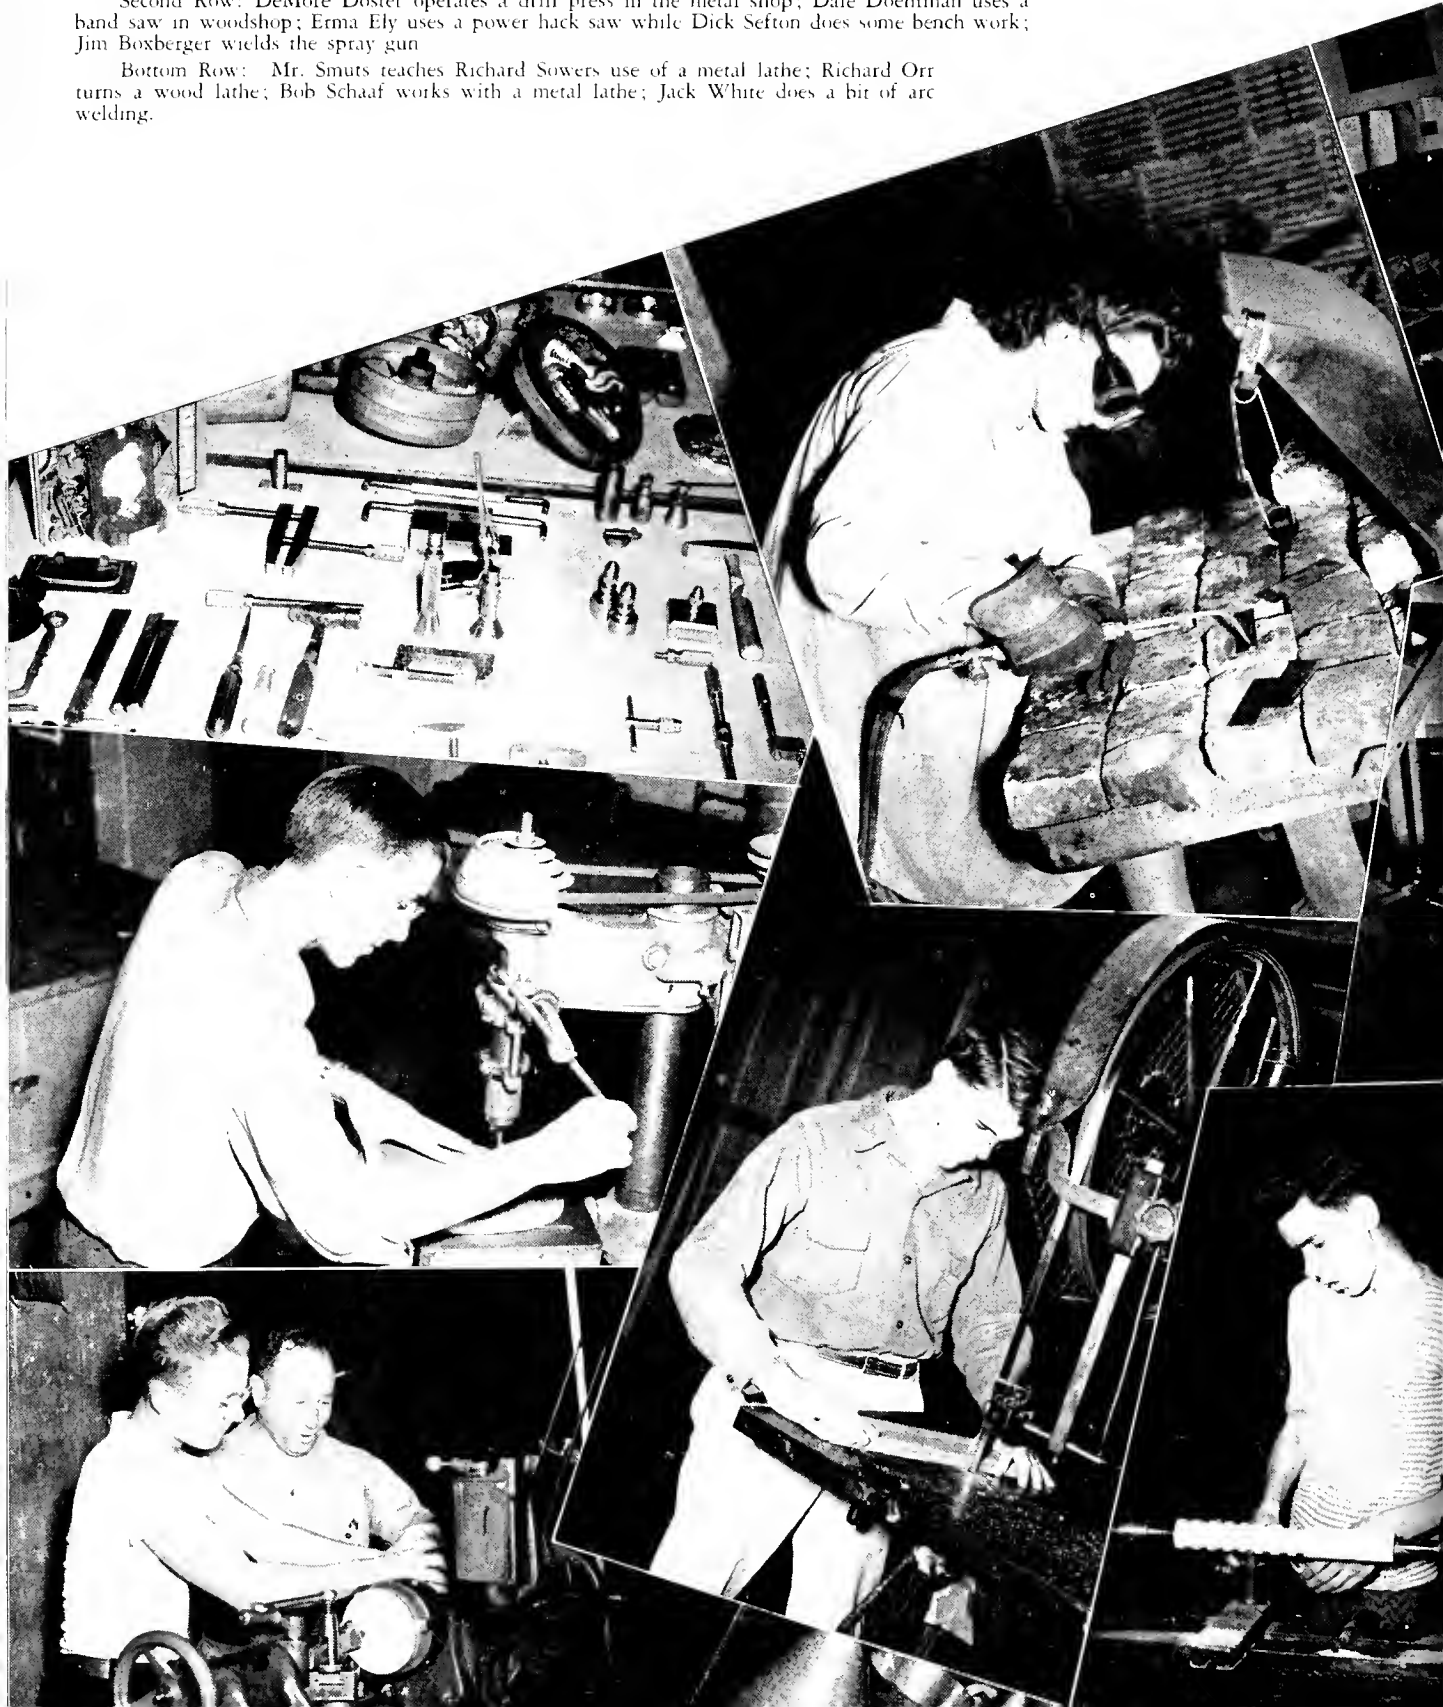

Introduction To Industry

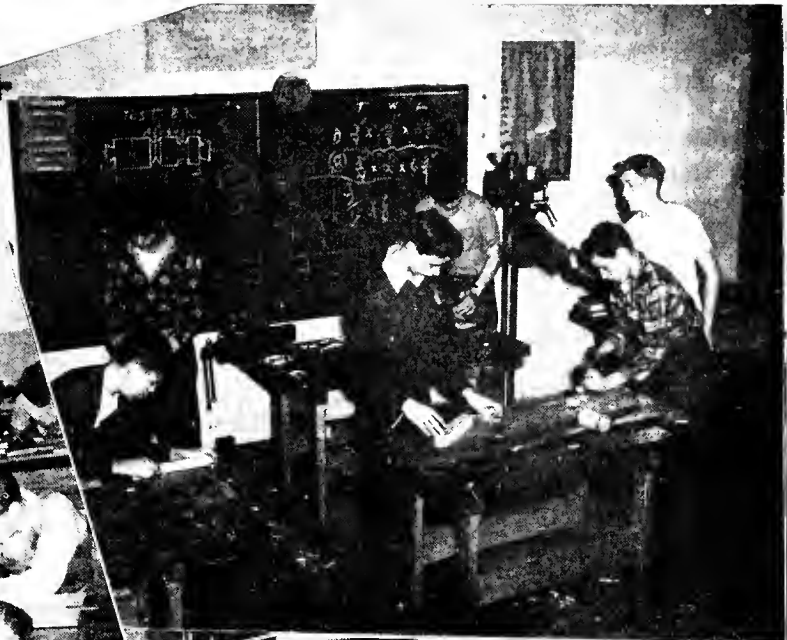

Skilled artisans of tomorrow get their preliminary introduction to their futures in the industrial art shops which today send boys and girls to factories to help in the production of war supplies.

Working On

Not only do North Side's students buy bonds and prepare for jobs in industry but they take the places, behind the counters, of those who have gone to carry the gun.

Middle Row: Whitie Long weighs the perennial favorite, hamburger, and Phyllis Irons shows that girls can take their place in groceries too.

Bottom Row: Dorothy Holcomb exhibits a brand of salt to a customer. Bill Krouse, Howard Kahlenbek, and Johnny Utterback are filling 'er up.

The Home-Front

As may be seen from the pictures on this page, the type of work that is done is varied. Students work not only in stores but wherever they are needed.

Top Row, left to right: Philip John "Cat" Worley, whose motto is "If thine enemy offend thee, give his children a drum", shows his skill as drummer for an orchestra. Ernie Altekruze and Dick Stevens act as life guards at a summer resort.

Bottom Row: Dick Keefer who works at the high school hangout, Sandy's, helps his employer inspect the latter's tires—a familiar task in these days! Ken Morrow, horse fan, says his job is exercising horses for the local stable; we wonder if it could really be called work for Ken who loves nags.

Backing A War - And Drilling For Battle

Behind the lines of Tuesday morning stamp and bond purchasers stands a group of persons through whose efforts the students of North Side can help to hasten the coming of victory. This group is the War Council.

Its functions are many; its work is done efficiently. It is responsible for stamp and bond purchases from the pep talks every Monday morning until the final totals and percentages for the weekly sales are completed.

Stamp and Bond Day finds the council's advisers, Mrs. Maryann Chapman, Miss Hazel Plummer, and Miss Bernice Sinclair, surrounded by numbers and percentages. Their willing helpers are members of the business and art departments who tabulate the purchases and make charts and graphs.

Military Maneuvers

Mr. Everett Pennington, who is in charge of military training, prepares North Side boys for the day when they will shoulder a gun and defend the liberties and principles that America must keep for the future.

A veteran of the last World War who fought in France, and a captain and executive officer of the Third Battalion, First Infantry of the Indiana State Guard, Mr. Pennington is more than qualified for this work.

Preparation in America's schools of today includes preparation for war as well as peace. Today's boys go into the armed services before they are graduated and the military training given them is training for their immediate future when they will charge the enemy for the sake of our ideals.

Mr. Pennington stands beside a line of military drill students who are at parade rest. In the picture immediately below, the group gets its distance by obeying the command, 'Dress right, dress'.

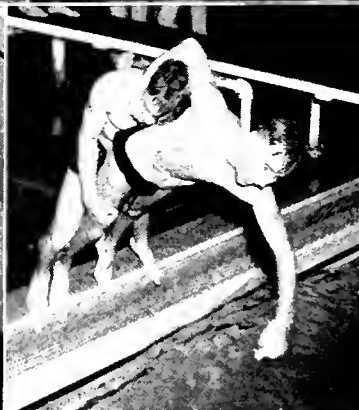

Seniors who will soon be joining the armed forces of the United States are pictured in the group picture in the lower right corner.

Up! Down! Up!

Third Row: "On your mark, get set, go!" Better breathing ability, speed, and strength win out in swimming races. "Push-ups" are not designed to wear students out. They build strong backs, legs, and arms. Bottom Row: These ambitious gents are pulling weights to better their balance and sense of timing. "Uh!"

Second row, left, Miss Waterson leads the girls in an exercise guaranteed to bring back those eighteen inch waists. Right, handclapping in rhythm.

Stamp Sale Day

Most of these scenes are re-enacted every Tuesday when North Siders rally to back the war by buying stamps and bonds. In the top row, Sue Pressler and Mary M. Miller write story of the sale Wilma Thomas and Virginia Davidson, standing, and Rena Miller and Betty Eisenhut compute results of the day.

Mrs. Chapman and Miss Plummer, left, in the second row, chart sales that are to support former Redskins like Cuby Sutton, right.

Doing Their Parts

Our own Miss Gross looks mighty snappy in her Motor Corps uniform. Major Walker Mahurin, Fort Wayne's leading Air Ace, receives Mayor Baal's heartiest handclasp. Miss Oral Furst also lends her skills to the Motor Corps. Receiving the National Citation Award for patriotic and civic participation in behalf of the music apartment are Milton Brooks, George Sparling, and Mr Varner Chance.

Lucille Lenke and Hilliard Gates, second row, discuss current problems. Another Red Cross ambulance driven by Miss Mildred Huffman. Mr. Ray S. Erlandson was presenter of the National Citation Award.

Mr. Abbott speaks at the National Honor Society Assembly; Major Mahurin and Mr. Baals again.

Coach Robert Dornte, left, successful mentor of North Side's basketball squad is the proud holder of a record never before attained by a hardwood coach in Fort Wayne City Series' history. Dornte, youngest of the city's net heads, sent this season's superb team through series competition without a single defeat: a record heretofore unparalleled.

In addition to this achievement, Dornte's cagers went through a torrid Sectional tournament to come out narrowly unscathed. Another tribute to Dornte is that his team showed steady improvement in almost every game throughout the season.

The "never say die" North Side Redskins climaxed a great season, in which they were undefeated in City Series competition, by winning the Fort Wayne Sectionals. Their hardwood boys proved that they were a great team by coming from behind in their last two games to win the fourth sectional title in the history of the school. Under the capable guidance of Coach Bob Dornte, the speedy Red netters came through with fifteen victories in twenty-three games.

When the season opened November 22 the Redskins came through with a thrilling 31 to 30 victory over Central Catholic's fighting Irish. At Laporte on December 1, North Side found the Slicers too tough and dropped a 30 to 23 game. Although playing a better brand of ball on December 2, the Indians fell before state-finalists from South Bend Riley, 46 to 36, but they stopped the losing streak on December by turning back a strong South Bend Central quintet, 34 to 31.

High point of all December matches came when the Redskins won a City Series contest by stopping the Central Tigers, 37 to 35. After that win, the Reds helped Auburn stretch its victory string to eight straight wins but only after a whale of a battle for North led until the last quarter. The Redskins ended the year of 1944 by losing their scalp to Goshen's Redskins 39 to 22.

In the first game of the New Year, on January 5, North Side opened with a terrific last quarter attack to trim the South Side Green Archers 35 to 22. A week later, when they triumphed over Central

Wins Sectional To Climax Thrilling Season

Catholic, 40 to 37, they chalked up their fourth straight City Series win. In a very ragged game, Mishawaka scored a 37 to 36 victory on January 13 over the Redskins who were decidedly off form and could never quite catch the Cavemen. The Redskins took, six days later, a 30 to 25 defeat at the hands of the always tough Elkhart Blue Blazers.

By turning on the power in the last half, North Side overwhelmed the Michigan City Red Devils, 49 to 33. Despite earlier losses, January ended with a bang when, on January 26, the North Side Redskins won their fifth consecutive City Series game, 37 to 35, by outlasting Central Tigers in an overtime. The next night Jim Leaman's set shot, with twenty seconds to play, proved the doom of South Bend John Adams, as the Indians won a great game, 35 to 33.

Breaking a long standing jinx on February 2, North Side's deadly sniping crushed South Side on their own floor, 38 to 34. The Redskins proved too tough for the Nappanee Bulldogs and came out on the long end of a 45 to 32 score.

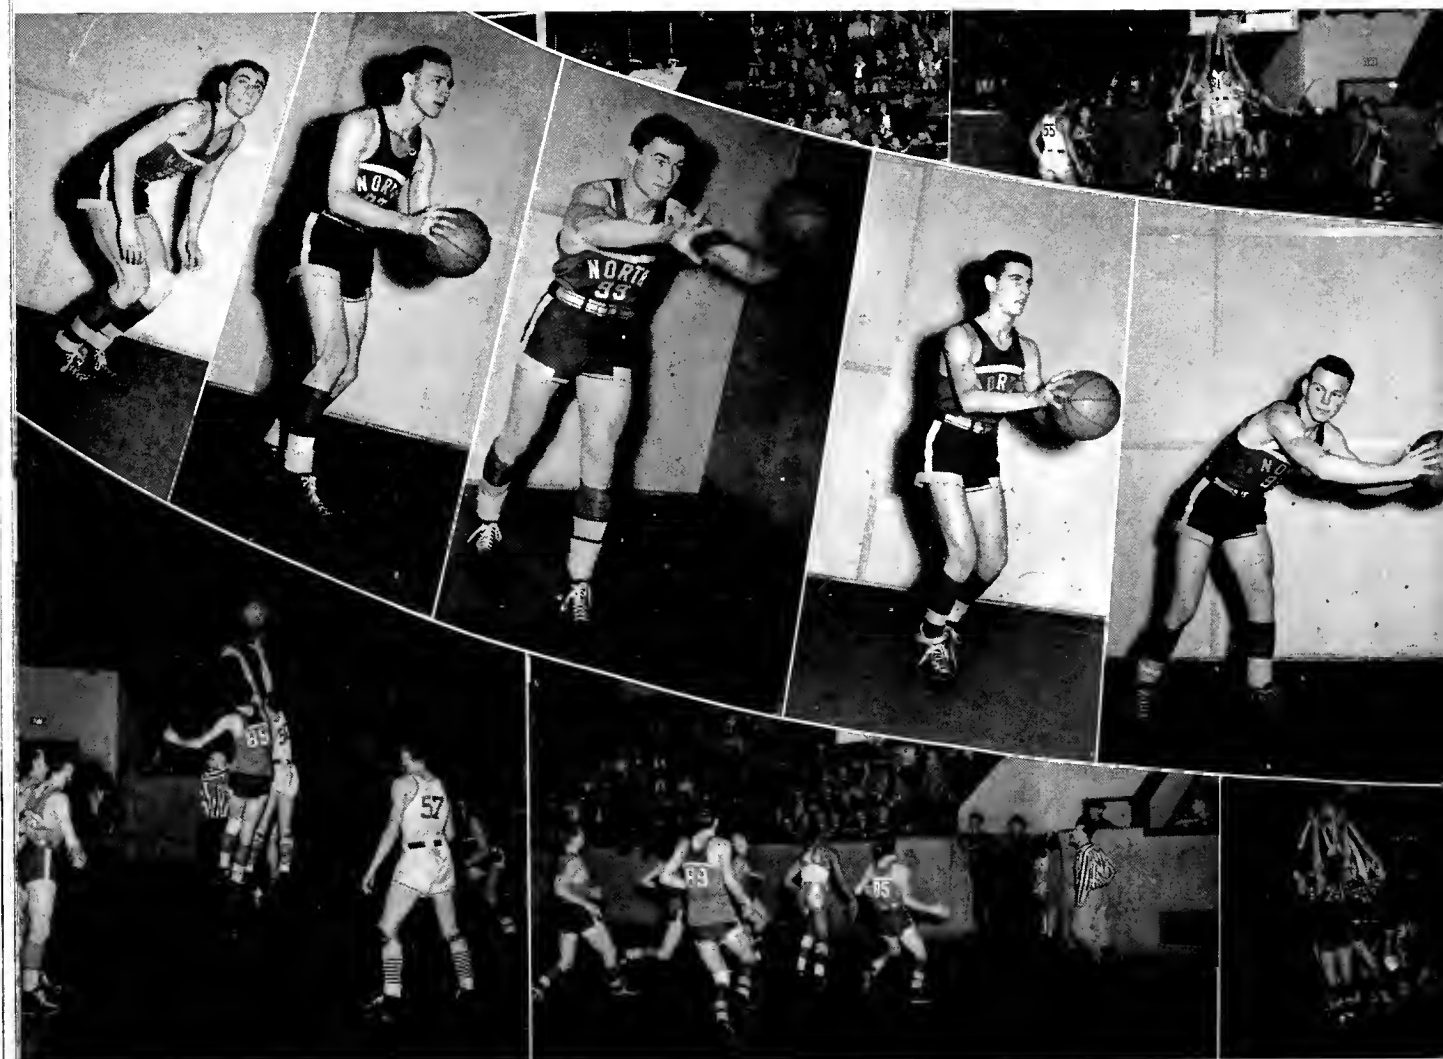

North Side made it five and five in the conference standings for the year as they downed the South Bend Washington Panthers, 48 to 41, on February 10. Six days later the fighting Redskins came roaring from behind to take the lead in the last quarter only to be nosed by one of the four state finalists, Huntington Vikings, 47 to 45.

The Redskins opened the Sectionals and defeated a weak Arcola team 38 to 17. The Northmen finally won over a stubborn Elmhurst Trojan team, 39 to 33, to make

During the past basketball season, these poses of North Side's main string have become very familiar to those who fill the bleachers.

Lloyd Vogel, honorary captain of the team, gets ready for the spring; Charlie Todd prepares to shoot; John Krieg catches a fast one; Jim Leaman gets himself set for a long shot; Norm Pfeiffer prepares to pass the ball.

In the background pictures in the top row, North Side and opponents gang up for the catch; in the bottom row, North Side and visitors jump for the ball. In the center cut, Central's Tigers and the Redskins close in to get a rebound. South Side and North Side players all stretch for the rebound.

Concordia's Cadets their next victim. Behind seven points with two minutes to play, the Red put on a great spurt to win, 40 to 38.

For the third time this year, the North Side Redskins met and defeated the South Side Green Archers, 30 to 28. Little Bill Laney's rebound shot with ten seconds to play proved the deciding basket.

Picked to win the Regionals the Redskins were upset in the second afternoon game by a rugged Syracuse team.

Losing only Vogel, Todd, Kreig, and Laney, this year the Dorntemen anticipate an even better season next year. Cowan, Leaman, Pfeiffer, Munger, Oetting, Bruick, Hurst, and Jackson will be back to carry on.

In the scene in the top row Central's Biggs and North's Laney go for a rebound. To the right, the teams leave the floor after a hard battle. Familiar words, "It was a great game."

Norb Cowan and Bill Laney show how they guard the foe—but this time he is wholly imaginary. Don Munger takes his stand as he prepares to take that free toss; Herb Bruick gets ready to pass the ball and Herb Bruick shows how he does it sometimes.

In the action shot in the bottom row, the boys gather around the goal to catch that ball when it comes through—or if it doesn't, to pick it up on the rebound.

Reds Have

Front Row: D. Munger, E. Doehrman, T. Woods, W. Kesler, M. Georgi, H. Bruick, F. Glasa, W. Heath, E. Altekruise, A. Robinson.

Second Row: D. Scott, B. Lloyd, D. Ruble, B. Alward, D. Mansfield, S. Tielker, D. Galli, J. Kochert, D. Beighley, M. Aughinbaugh.

Third Row: C. Patterson, S. Senger, M. Ogg, Dick Davis, D. Lano, W. Stoler, G. Sparling, D. Sefton, J. White, D. Nichols, N. Cowan.

Back Row: Coach Bob Dornite, C. Todd, J. Burtette, J. Treesh, L. Patton, J. Bassett, P. Gutman, V. Oetting, L. Oswald, W. Prentice, J. Krieg.

Successful Grid Season With Rugged Schedule

The Redskin gridders of 1944 played a tough schedule, with an inexperienced eleven and a lot of bad breaks; nevertheless, they accumulated a record which does credit to the aggressiveness and spirit of a hard-fighting team and its coach, Bob Dornte. North Side placed second only to South Side in City Series competition, and Charles Todd, Don Mansfield, Wayne Heath, and Frank Glasa were chosen on the All-City Team.

North dropped its first three games to Central, South Side, and Mishawaka. The starting line-up changed a great deal during these games, as Coach Dornte tried to find an eleven that clicked. Evidently he succeeded, for the Red men took the next three games from Central Catholic, Central, and the previously undefeated Huntington Vikings.

North Side fell before Riley of South Bend, one of the state's outstanding teams, but bounced back to defeat South Side. During the Elkhart game, Lady Luck frowned on the Redskins, however, for they lost the contest and also three men because of injuries. A somewhat demoralized eleven fell before Central Catholic in the final game.

Inexperience was the big handicap which kept North Side from bettering our record of four wins and six losses. But the Redskins played clean, hard football; their record is one to be proud of.

Husky tackle Fred Hess, top left, is poised for immediate action. Frank Glasa, top right, who fulfills the responsible blocking back position, is raring to go. "The Brow" was not so amiable-looking in competition.

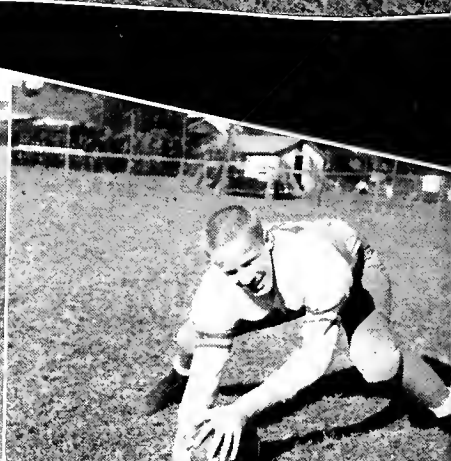

Lower Right: Redskins tote the ball away for a nice gain on North's playing field.

Center: Don "Minnie" Mansfield, blocking back, flashes a grimace which was very discouraging to opponents. Don is a sophomore. To the right is Fred Hess; guess the editor put him in twice so the reader could see his face.

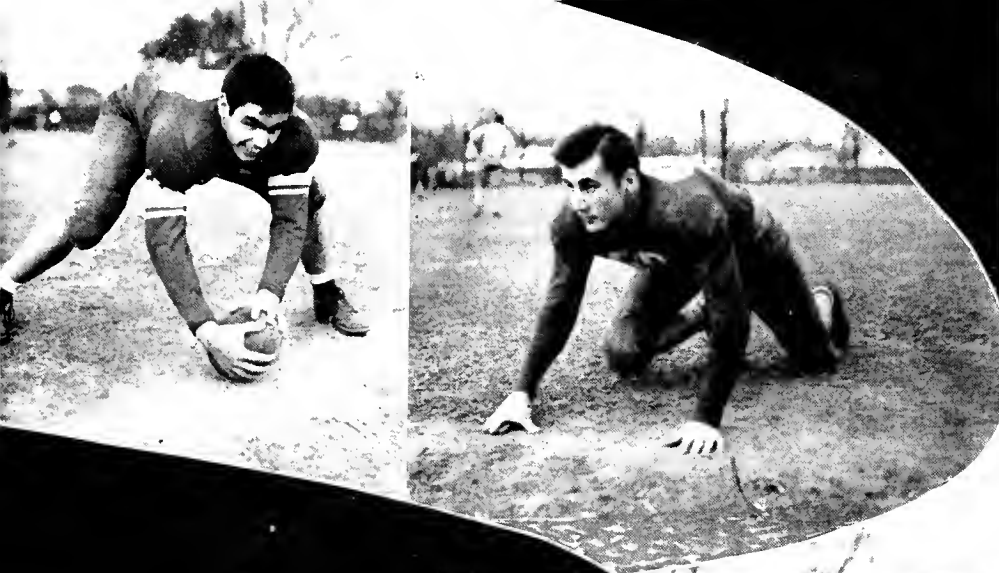

Bottom: Tom Woods, tackle, is caught with the expression that is intended to take his antagonists off guard, a feat which he accomplished many times during the past season. To the right, Ernie Altekruze obliges with a bright smile as he is about to snap the pigskin at the center position.

Action shot at the bottom of the page is of a tussle for the ball that took place on North's own field.

Track Aggregation

Coach Rolla Chambers, left, is shown in a characteristic pose, holding one of the many trophies his perpetually successful track teams have attained. Mr. Chambers, recognized as the outstanding cinder mentor in Indiana, has coached teams which have won four State Indoor championships and two State Outdoor championships, four Kokomo relays, three Southport relays, and six State Cross Country championships.

Coach Chambers has been at North Side ever since its opening, and from 1930, the first year of track activity, has instilled in the boys with whom he has worked a spirit of fair play, clean sportsmanship, and the will to win. He takes a personal interest in each boy, trying to help him to do his best. Coach Chambers works hard, and works his teams hard. The respect and admiration of the team members for him, however, will dispel any doubts as to the effectiveness of these precepts.

North Side has been a power in Indiana track for many years, and North's Cross Country teams have a reputation of near-invincibility. Much credit for these accomplishments must go to Coach Rolla Chambers.

Meets with South Side and Central were also to be filled in on the schedule.

The traveling trackmen of 1945 are:

Second Row: Doenges, Kissinger, Patterson, Niles, Mansfield, Bruick, Schwartz, Kesler, Buehrer, Poffenberger, Worley, Patterson, Helmke, Woods.

Third Row: Dellinger, Prentice, Glasa, Stalf, Lamson, Harper, Kochert, Galli, Doehrman, Davis, Sterling, Patton, Bohlander, Finkhouse, Georgi, Hartzell, Coach Chambers.

Is Once Again Of Kentucky Derby Calibre

"We may not win it, but we wouldn't trade our chances for anyone else's in the state." This was the statement of Rolla Chambers, which caused track mentors to shudder, shake their heads, and exclaim, "North Side, again?"

Due to the Legend's going to press early and the team's slowness to come to hand, no meets had been run at this writing, but the Chambersmen once more had the most attractive schedule in the state. It included the North Side-Hammond Invitational Indoor State Meet, the new Indianapolis Relays, duals with South Side, Central, Mishawaka, and Kokomo, the Kokomo Relays, which the Rover Boys will try to win for the fifth consecutive year, the N. I. C. Meets in which the Rampaging Redskins were nosed out by Hammond last year, the Sectionals, the State, and possibly a City Meet.

The 1945 aggregation has much more balance than last year's team, which would have finished only a point out of first place competition against more than 100 schools, but for an unfortunate accident in the mile relay.

Lefty Whitacre, successor to Ash Hawk as Indiana's distance champ, has reeled off brilliant times in the mile, 880, and mile relay. Ken Morrow is in 100, 220, 440, 880 relay; Charley Patterson, 440, and mile relay; Jim Schwartz, Don Poffenberger, and Wayne Kesler in the high and low hurdles.

Lloyd Vogel, Phil Worley, and Bill Laney, participate in the short dashes, and 880 relay; Don Munger and Herb Bruick in the 440 and mile relay; Jack Schick, Walt Helmke, and Bob Gorrell in the 880; Al Silk and Walt Bauermeister in the mile; and Don Mansfield, Tom Woods, Bob Bullard, Ron Buehrer, and Frank Glasa in the field events are the numerous mainstays of North's cinder team.

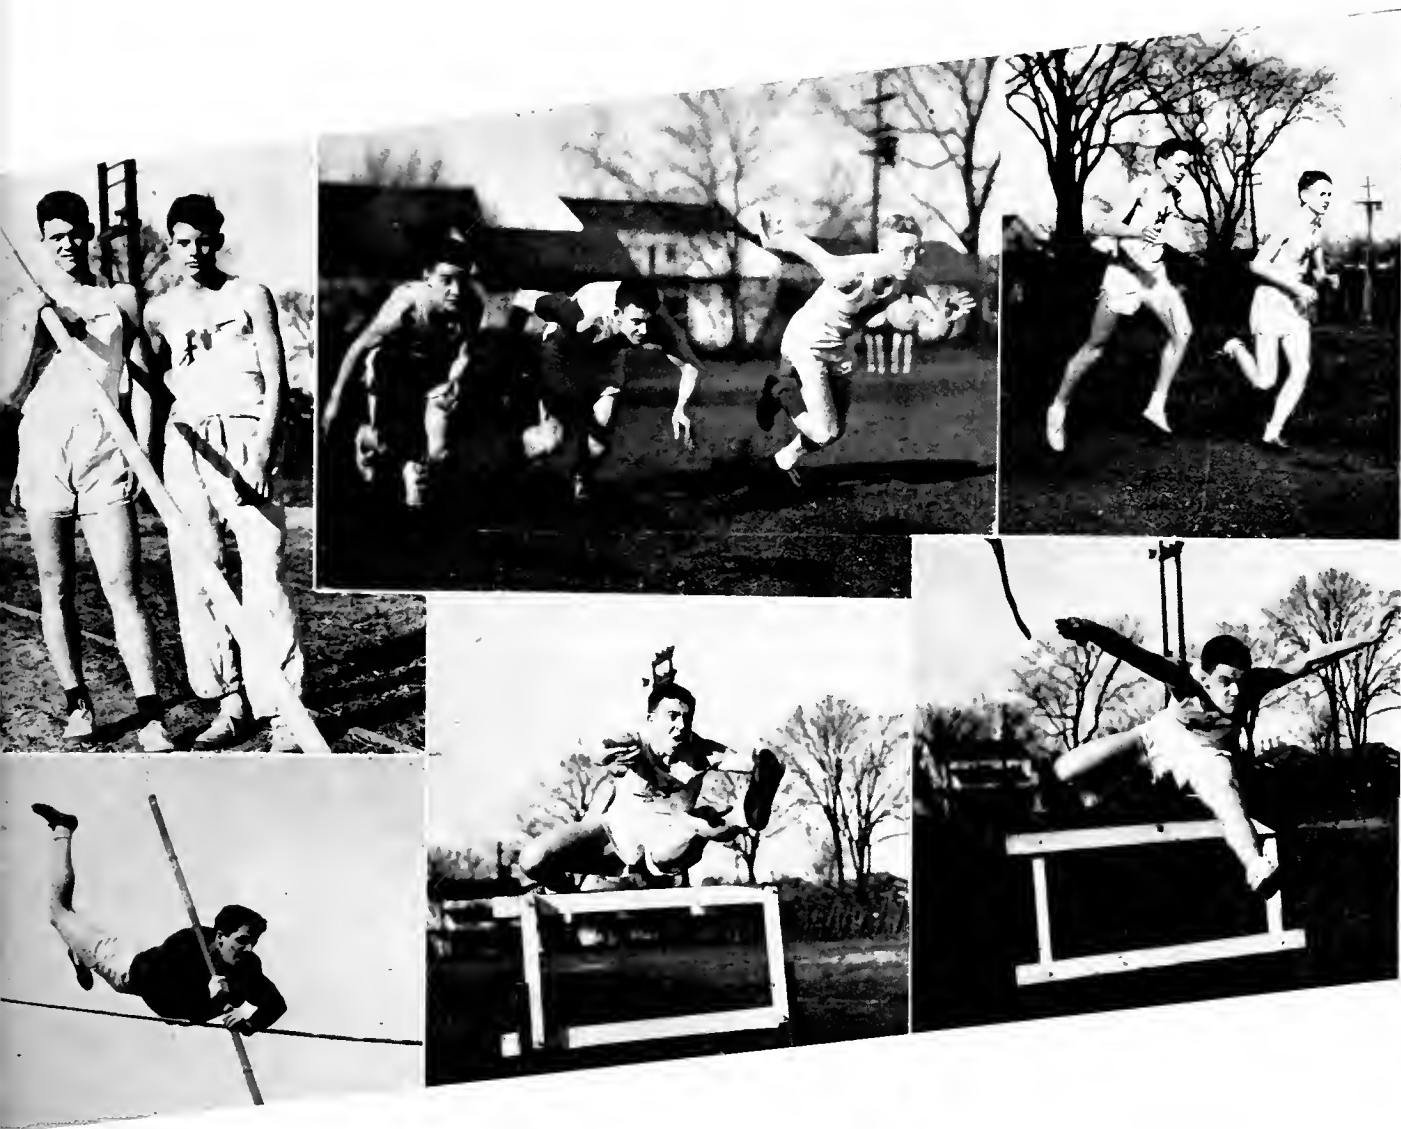

Only five seniors will be graduated, so next year's prospects are exceedingly bright.

Relay man Phil Worley gives the baton to quarter-miler Charles Parterson to send him sailing on his way in the 440. Upper center: Bobby Gorrell stretches the baton to "Man O' War" Morrow on a half-mile relay run. Upper right: The two unheralded but irreplaceable student managers are responsible Wade Prentice and "Pickles" Dellinger.

Lower left: Big, beefy Tom Woods and "Minnie" Mansfield make ready to heave the shot forty feet or thereabouts. Lower center: The traveling trackmen, North Side's outstanding milers, Lefty Whitacre, Al Silk, and Walt Bauermeister, end another mile in that order. Lower right: Phil Worley and Ken Morrow team up in a gag shot, showing "how to do it—if you can get away with it."

Lower Left: Watch that stick! Last year's pole vault star, Clancy Hanson, now overseas in the Navy, soars over the bar in a characteristic pose.

Lower Center: Wayne Kesler snaps over the highs, displaying good hurdle form. He's also displaying a peculiar look on his face that's somewhere between pain and fright.

Lower Right: Stick-skimmer Jimmy Schwartz closely resembles "Batman" in this low hurdle shot. But Jimmy Batman wears a cape.

Sport

A few shots of our sports men in action: First row, left, Laney runs a close second. Center, Lloyd Vogel sharpens his spike. To the right, Vogel holds the gun.

Second Row: Melvin Rodenbeck, and Dick Rohlfing get set for football practice. Top center, Bill Laney clears a hurdle. Lower center, Whitacre and Stalf get in condition.

Third Row: Thrilling shot of a good ball game. Middle, Ash Hawk comes into the lead. Right, "the finish" with Laney and Morrow representing North.

Indiana's Greatest! 62 Straight

One of the greatest of North Side's top Harrier squads, these boys, under the direction of Coach Rolla Chambers, won sixty-two consecutive races.

Standing: Bill Kemp, Jack Schick, Del Byerley, Coach Chambers, Al Silk, and Fred Toenges.

For third straight time, North Side's cross-country team has captured the Northern Indiana Conference title. This team is hailed by Coach Chambers as the greatest cross country team ever to run in the state. The Harriers opened their season with a brilliant display of power by defeating Laporte's Slicers, 15 to 69. (Low scorer is winner.)

The following week the thinlies traveled to Elkhart to down them, 19 to 47. The Elkhart boys thought they could topple the Redskins but the Harriers from North Side trounced them again, 19 to 43. The next week the Red fans thought their Harriers had met their match in the highly regarded Roosevelt team, but our rampaging team romped over Roosevelt, 19 to 55.

On October 21, Hammond, North's old track rival, visited the Redskins' camp ground only to be thoroughly beaten, 19 to 59. Lefty Whitacre set a new Franke Park course record of 9:39. November 4, date of the Northern Indiana Conference meet, saw the Redskins having a little trouble, for the Gary Horsemen of Horace Mann, their only stiff competition, finished second, 70 points behind the Redskins, who set an all time NIC scoring record of 30 points. The NIC meet made a total of 62 consecutive wins for the North Side cross-country teams.

The Harriers elected as their co-captains Lefty Whitacre and Delbert Byerley, now a Merchant Marine, who was number four man on the team. Bill Kemp, now in the Navy, ran in number three position. Walt Bauermeister held down number two place. Dick Stalf captured number five position followed by John Schick in sixth. Seventh and eighth places were held by Bob Gorrell and Al Silk, respectively. All eight boys received letters.

The team this year broke last year's team record score of 36 points in the NIC meet by scoring a new low of only 30 points.

1945 Crop Of Redskin Lettermen

Front Row:
Toenges, Richards,
Stellhorn, Staight,
Hiatt, Dellinger,
Silk, White. Second row: Byerley, Mun-
ger, Kesler, Bullard,
Jackson, Krieg, Patterson, Glasa, Vogel, Heath. Third row: Chambers, adviser; Pfeiffer, Bru-
ick, Kochert, Todd,
Rohlfing, Woods,
Mansfield, Miss Julia Storr, adviser.
Whitacre, Stalf,
Bauermeister, Hess,
Poffenberger, Alte-
kruse, Morrow,
Helmke, Laney.

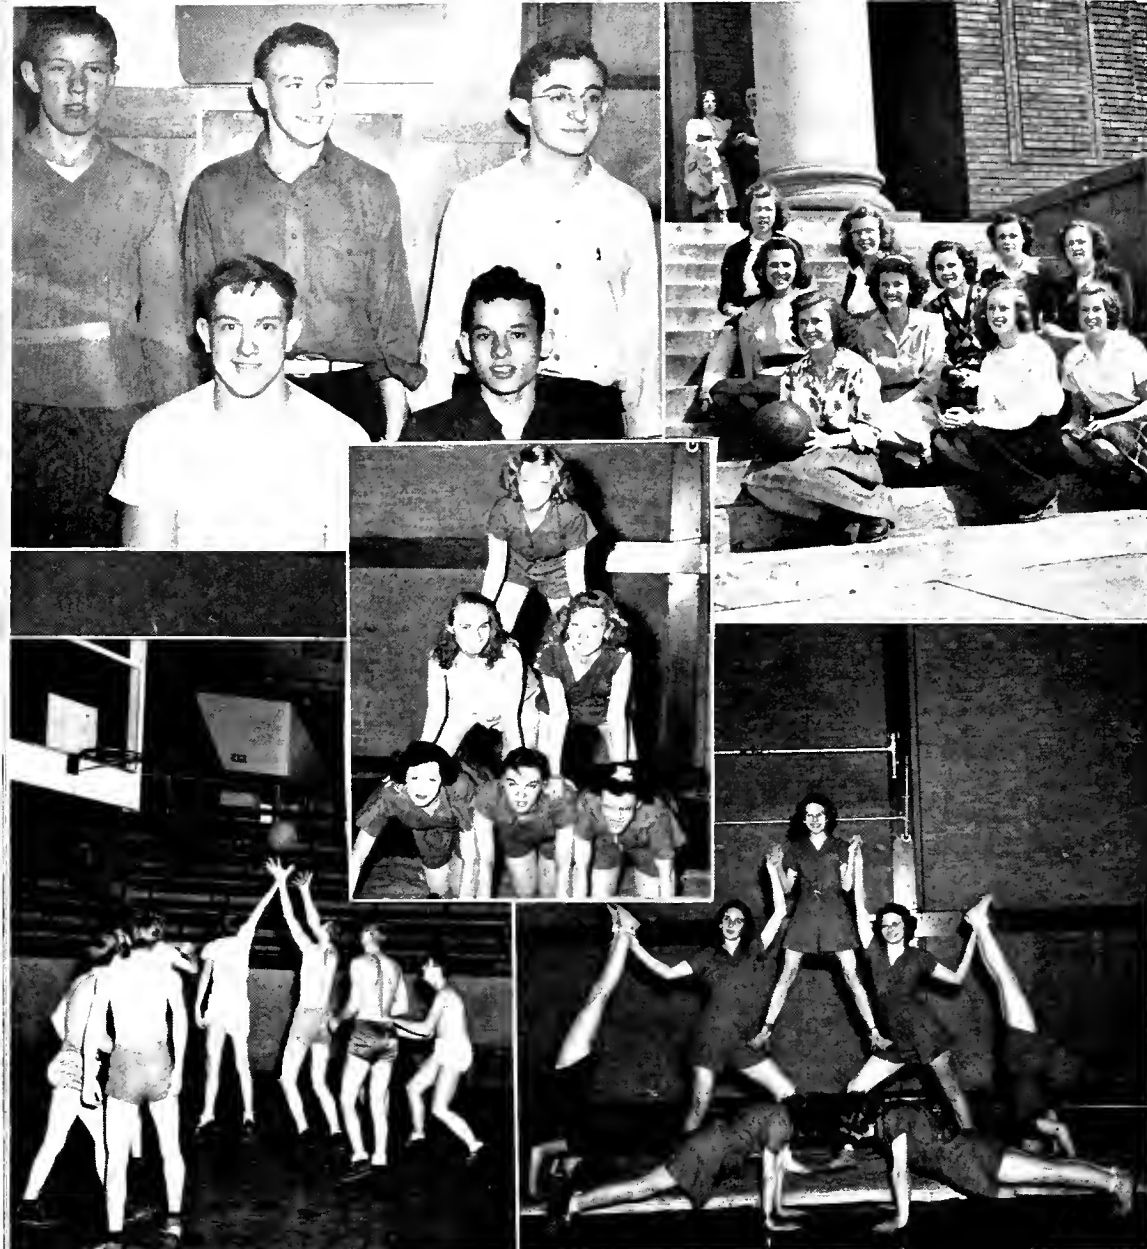

This year, above all years, has been a good one for these Lettermen who, under the guidance of Miss Julia Storr, Rolla Chambers, and Bob Dornte, have shown what they could do for their Alma Mater. Wayne Heath, president, has shown his ability in football; Lloyd Vogel, vice-president, gave his best performance in basketball and did a fine job in track; Dick Stalf, secretary, starred in cross-country.

Lettermen are easily spotted about the halls, as they wear their big "N's" which they work so hard to achieve, and which entitle them to membership in this club.

The white stripes on the sleeve of the wearer indicate the number of years on the squad, and a gold stripe gives the wearer the distinction of being honored as captain of the team. Of course, the stars on the sleeve of the track squad designate the capture of a state championship.

The track squad has plenty of these stars and has added a lot of trophies to the show case. Our show cases display the merits our boys have displayed on the football field, on the track, on hardwood, in the past years. In fact, an extension is going to be built on to the one we now have, so they can extend their winnings of trophies in the future, without embarrassing anyone.

These Lettermen are true Redskins of North Side. They are the ones who carry the Redskin banner on the athletic field of battle and they are the boys who are going into the services of the United States Armed Forces to carry the national emblem, the Stars and Stripes, to victory.

Intramural Sports Champions

Intramural sports furnished North Siders with much interesting competition during the past year, and brought into the limelight some who were to make even bigger names for themselves in varsity athletics.

The annual leader's tournament proved to be a thriller from start to finish, with Foo's Boys and the Raiders battling for the championship. The Foo's came out on top in an overtime, 23 to 21. Cowan was high point man with 13, and Cowan, Hursh, and Pfeiffer of the Foo's went on to play varsity basketball.

Jack Mahlan set a new record in capturing the intramural cross-country meet. Simon finished second, Detwiller third, Hather fourth, Alden fifth, and Koenig sixth.

The tennis team, under the direction of Coach Noel Whittern, has yet to get its season underway.

Girls' intramural competition, directed by Miss Louise Waterson, and by Miss Margaret Spiegel, consisted of basketball, volleyball, and tumbling meets.

Directors Of Sporting Activities

Blueprinting and executing North Side's athletic activities is the job of the Athletic Board. Because of the wartime need for healthy and physically fit young men, the work of the board has greatly increased in importance since 1943 when the ruling that all boys must take part in some form of military training or physical fitness was affected.

Captain Everett Pennington is teaching the boys in his military drill classes much valuable information which will be useful to them when they enter the Armed Forces. Mr. Hyrle Ivy's work in the Rifle Club teaches the boys sharpshooting and good sportsmanship, while, as swimming instructor, he improves their muscular coordination and lung capacity.

Mr. J. R. Sinks handles the intramural sports, Mr. Noel Whittern coaches tennis; and Mr. Robert Dornie serves as head mentor of the football and basketball teams.

Mr. Rolla Chambers not only coaches the track and cross country teams but also arranges the athletic schedules assisted by Mr. Leslie Reeves who handles the athletic department finances.

Mr. Milton H. Northrop's task is to see that everything is done fairly and that North Side meets the standards set by the Indiana High School Athletic Association. Mr. Northrop recently was accorded the honor of being appointed to a position on the IHSAA board of control. Few high school principals receive this privilege. This board controls inter-scholastic tourneys and meets, determines forfeitures, and discusses and decides the association rules.

Physically Sound Women Fit For

Second Row: N. Skiles, P. Krumbigel, B. Madsen, J. Miller, M. Stanger, E. Warner, J. Hoffman, D. Gerardot, J. Schweitzer, J. Pickering, J. Biesemeyer, B. Boyer, and N. Bennett.

Back Row: M. Nichols, P. Irons, S. Weigel, N. Miller, M. Horne, J. Tully, M. Zoch, P. Heaston, V. Hagy, M. Byrde, and P. Carpenter.

Miss Margaret Spiegel and Miss Louise Waterson, teachers of girls physical fitness, who are shown in the picture to the left, are to be found in their office adjoining the girls' gymnasium when they are not to be seen on the floor of the gym directing activities that vary from pushups to volley ball and even ping-pong—when some generous soul supplies one of those hard-to-get-balls.

Miss Spiegel teaches the health classes and is also a health counselor. Aside from this and gym work, she teaches all of the swimming and directs the life-saving courses. Under her direction, students in swimming present each year a water carnival which features fancy swimming formations.

Miss Waterson who is the junior member of the department—for she came to North Side this year to succeed Miss Hilda Schwehn who went to teach at Purdue—has a busy schedule too. She directs the recreation in the gym at noon where students may play dart games, shuffle board, badminton, or volley ball.

Miss Waterson also teaches rhythm classes which she started this fall, for no class of this nature was ever before on the curriculum.

Both Miss Spiegel and Miss Waterson direct GAA activities. Miss Waterson directs all the intramural activities in tumbling and basketball and Miss Spiegel the track and softball. Both direct volley ball.

Their Role In Tomorrow's America

Seated, left to right, are: J. Harris, P. Ridings, G. A. Zimmerman, M. Kraus, D. Boschet, M. Houser, B. Wire, M. Vogel, M. E. Crankshaw, M. L. Dickerson, M. Erhardt, and L. Becker.

Second Row: V. Van Hoozen, E. Houser, S. Zion, D. Barrand, P. Barrand, M. Franklin, J. Wallborn, A. Berning, J. Ginzle, M. Miller, M. Hattendorf, and J. Bell.

Back Row: P. Brown, M. Skelly, M. Hunter, E. Ely, S. McKeefer, J. Ormerod, J. McKeefer, M. Goodwin, V. Spice, A. Baermann, M. Ransbottom, and R. Becker.

Since war has come to America it is only natural that it should come to North Side. Physical fitness classes now try to build up healthy bodies through the medium of concentrated exercises, rhythms, or sports. Gym classes, though they still play the different games, are concentrating more on exercises too.

The Girls' Athletic Association, commonly called the GAA, helps to train our young girls, so they can play a greater role in a future healthy America, and to impress on the minds of our young athletes the rules of good sportsmanship. They do all this, and yet they still have fun.

The credit for the success of the club this year goes to the two very capable gym instructors, Miss Margaret Spiegel and Miss Louise Waterson, who have contributed their time and effort to make the organization what the girls want.

To keep the girls happy, practices in basketball, volleyball, tumbling, and track are held. The practices are followed by contests to decide the champions. The seniors lead in basketball and volleyball, but in track they bow low before those active and nimble little freshies.

The blocked "N," the highest award given by GAA, is received when one thousand points are garnered. GAA emblem is given when a girl receives six hundred points to her credit. The winged "N" used to be the highest award, but in 1943 the point system was changed and the winged "N" dropped.

The club's biggest annual event is the Water Carnival, which was held on April 13 this year. Specialty acts, and elaborate displays of lights on the water were the feature attractions.

GAA also offers an after-game dance, occasionally a skating party, a Vod-Vil, and the rough initiation for new freshmen.

There is only one drawback to the club and that is that the constitution says, and I quote, "All boys are exempt," unquote.

Indoor

Outdoor

'Tis spring, beautiful spring, when everyone wants to be out-of-doors, even the girls. Upper left corner: Mr. Chambers carefully records the height in a high-jumping contest.

Top right and middle left show the girls on the football field practicing basketball throws. In the lower middle left photo the kids are having a race, the 50-yard dash to be exact. Middle right is broad-jumping. In the circle we see a high-jumper . . . Hey! Where's the ground in that picture.

Ahhhh, softball. In the picture at bottom left, she's up to bat with two strikes. "Strike three: you're out . . . Kill the umpire," was the cry. At bottom, right: The umpire must have heard that.

Pep Session - - School spirit is loudly evident to anyone who steps into the gym during a pep session or during a game. The scenes snapped here are typical. In the top row, Mr. Shambaugh leads the band in a stirring number; center, Jim Leaman, basketball player, addresses the school; Dave Hiatt and Bob Staight, student managers, are ready for service.

Center: Practice makes pep sessions successful—see this concerted action? Joe Carkenord tells the crowd to whoop it up; Joe, Jim Schwartz, and Fred Ransbottom talk over the program.

Bottom: Jim Schwartz hits the top; upper center, crowd stands during intermission; lower center, he isn't standing on his hand; it's just one stage in a cartwheel; Joe helps Schwartz.

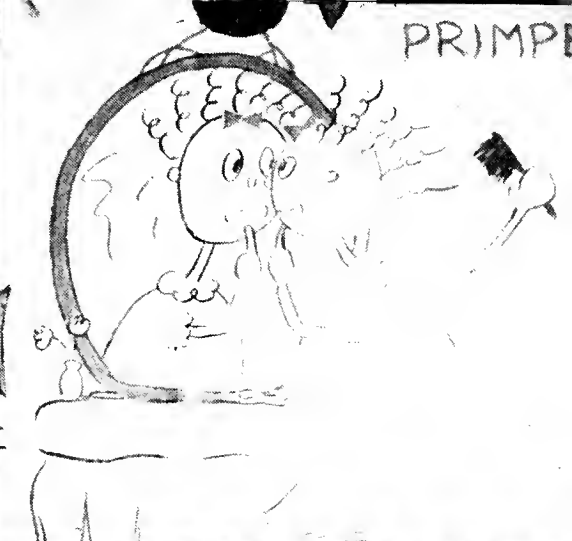

Twirlers

- - - - In the picture at top left the girls pose in one of their formations to have their picture taken. Look at the birdie, girls. At top right, Ellen Schaffhauser gives the photographer a big smile.

Round And About

As one strolls around the circular halls of North Side these things, or their likeness, may be seen. Miss Gross, top row, left, views some messy lockers. Posters like this bedeck the walls.

Painting and repairing is always in progress. In the top picture, center row, seniors stand and wait for the momentous moment when they get diplomas. This is merely the grid backstage.

North Side's trophy case is evidence that her students bring home the bacon. Someday about 10 o'clock, when delicious odors penetrate the halls, track them down and this is what you will find—pots and pans full of good things in the cafeteria kitchen.

American Redskin Code

The code of all Redskins is the code that will make America a great country for, by learning to live by this in the school community, North Side students learn to prepare for living in the world.

This is our code:

As a loyal student of North Side High School, I will try to be:

Reherent and respectful,

Eager for education,

Dependable in face of duty,

Self-reliant,

Kind and courteous,

Impartial in judgment,

Neat in appearance,

Sincere in every endeavor,

For only by upholding these ideals, will I be a true Redskin.
